The Harriet M. Scott Memorial Window

The Harriet M. Scott Memorial Window which is in the Library was given to Detroit Teachers College by the members of the Detroit Normal Alumni Association in the fall of 1914. It was placed there in memory of Harriet M. Scott who gave fourteen years of her life toward organizing a training school for Detroit teachers.

The window, beautifully colored, shows Teta in charge of a school for women at Wimburnia, Dorset, in 1718, training a charming girl, Leoba, who later became a teacher.

The transom side lights represent the symbols of two noted printers of early times, one of whom was the first man in England to print a book.

Foreword

FROM the beginning of time man has endeavored to preserve, in some form or another, a record of his failures and achievements, his sorrows, his joys; a history, in short, wherein all that has been outstanding in his career is recorded.

The "Detecol" is the history of your two years spent in Detroit Teachers College. We have endeavored to crowd between its covers all that has been dear to you at D. T. C.; all that which has been noble and sincere endeavor; all that which may call forth the reminiscent smile, the glad tear, the hearty chuckle, "when you have older grown" and "still recall the dear old halls."

If we have accomplished in a small measure what we have diligently and sincerely labored for, we shall feel amply rewarded.

COLLEGE HISTORY

ON JOYOUS occasions when you sing "We're here because we're here," you do not delve deeply into the how or why of the matter. You merely accept the fact and let it go at that. At other times, however, you are more critical of your environment. For this reason the occasion is opportune for relating "how we came to be where we are."

It was way back in 1864 that Superintendent of Schools, J. M. Sill, first recommended in his annual report that the Board of Education of the City of Detroit should organize a department for the training of teachers. Many years passed but still no action was taken. So persistent, however, was Superintendent Sill that in 1881 the board finally consented, provided that the new department be self-supporting and of no expense to the system.

In those days Oswego was, as Cubberly described it, THE normal training school, and it was from this institution that the Superintendent obtained for the new Detroit Normal Training School his first instructor, Miss Amanda P. Funnelle, at the then staggering salary of $1,800.00 per year!

Twenty-nine students applied for admission to the new school in August of 1881, fifteen of whom successfully passed the entrance examinations. Classes were conducted in Central High School, which was at that time located where Capitol Park now is.

Of course, the provision of the board that the normal be self-maintaining, had to be met; consequently the students were required to study six months and teach six months without remuneration before they were granted a position. After this period of cadet teaching the successful ones were accepted for employment at the colossal salary of $30.00 per month.

In 1885 Miss Harriet M. Scott became head of the school, which position she occupied for four years.

At the present time a system of tunnels connect the Marr practice school with Teachers' College, but at that time practice teaching was done at the Washington and Russell schools, almost a mile away. It was not until 1893 that instruction and practice work were combined in the Washington Normal Training School.

Mr. John F. Thomas was principal of the Detroit Normal School from 1908 to 1920, when he resigned to accept the position of Director of Educational Expenditures, which office Mr. Thomas still retains. It was in 1915, during Mr. Thomas' period of office, that the Normal was moved to its present location with the Marr as a practice school.

With the beginning of the summer session of 1920, Stuart A. Curtis accepted the position of Dean of the institution. The Class of January, 1921, graduated, not from Detroit Normal School, but from Detroit Teachers College. Simultaneous with the advent of Dean Curtis to leadership of the College, Dr. Leo J. Brueckner accepted the office of Assistant Dean. Dr. Brueckner had assisted Dean Curtis in making the Gary Survey in 1916. At the time of the national crisis, Dr. Brueckner was commissioned in the United States Army. After demobilization he was again associated with Dean Curtis in the capacity of Assistant Director of the Department of Research.

So rapid was the growth of the College that the McGraw and the Wingert and Angell Schools were added as practice teaching schools. Enrollment reached its height in September, 1923, when records showed more than eight hundred and fifty registered for the regular day session alone, not to mention the students enrolled in evening school, extension courses, and cadets and substitutes.

At the end of the summer session of 1922, of which he was the Director, Dr. Brueckner resigned to accept the office of Associate Professor of Education and Head of the Department of Theory and Practice of Education at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis.

The beginning of the new semester, in September, 1922, found Mr. Warren E. Bow as Assistant Dean of Detroit Teachers College.

With Stuart A. Curtis as Dean and Warren E. Bow as Assistant Dean, Detroit Teachers College will continue to expand and improve in the future as it has done in the past.

T. C. Song

*O Teacher's College that we love,
Whose story's yet untold,
We give a cheer from hearts sincere,
The Purple and the Gold.
We sing a song we'll ne'er forget
Of happy days with thee,
As we recall thy dear old halls,
We love thee, dear T. C.*

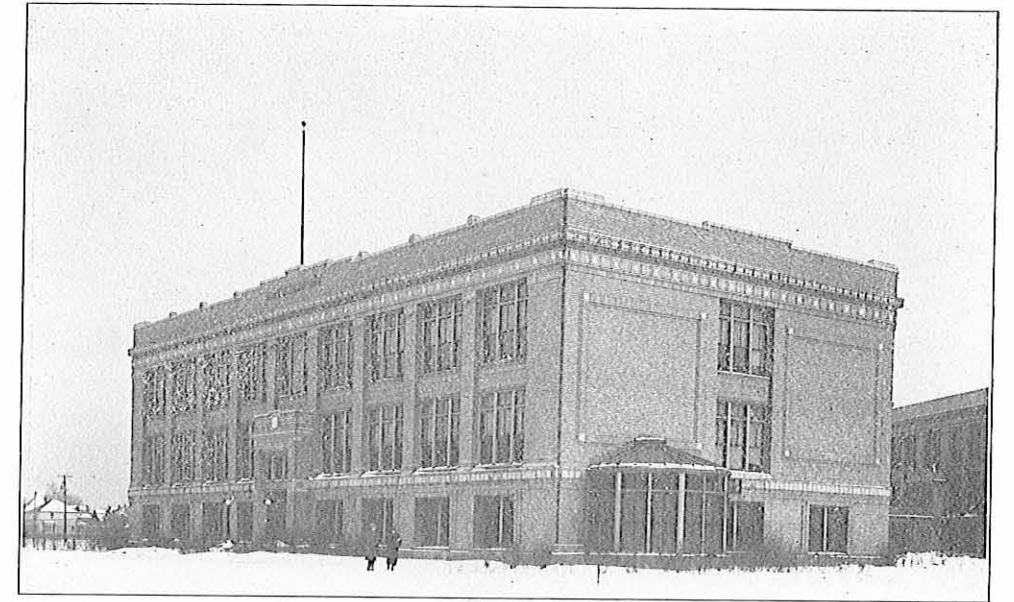

*So let us lift our voices clear
And high the standards raise,
And hand in hand, a loyal band,
Sing heartily thy praise.
Thy precepts we will ne'er forget
And we will faithful be;
So here's a thought of kindness yet
We love thee, dear T. C.*

*And when the future years have come
And we have older grown,
Our thoughts will turn, our hearts will yearn
To greet thee, dear old school,
Although we wander far away,
Whate'er our lot may be
We'll wish thee all the joy we know,
We love thee, dear T. C.*

Degree Class History

THE SENIOR CLASS was organized in the fall of 1923, with the following officers.

Mrs. Lulu Adams, President.
Mrs. Erma Fillman, Secretary and Treasurer.

There was much discussion as to whether the organization should include both those students who were candidates for the degree in June and at the close of the summer session. It was finally decided that all of those working beyond the life certificate requirements should be considered members of the organization, which was then known as the Senior-Junior Class.

Under this organization, meetings were held every two or three weeks. It became the avowed purpose of the organization to co-operate with the faculty in emphasizing the four-year program of the College. Mr. Muffitt was appointed Advisor, by Mr. Bow and plans were made for uniting the Extension students and all degree candidates into one organization.

By means of the generosity of the Student Council, a dinner-dance was held at the Addison Hotel on January 17th, with Mr. W. B. Foster in charge of arrangements. Places were reserved for seventeen, and it proved a very delightful occasion and a direct means of promoting class spirit.

At the beginning of the second semester, a temporary organization was formed and at the first meeting of this organization, a committee appointed to co-operate with the faculty in arranging for the June, 1924, commencement and composed of Miss Eleanor S. Currie, chairman, Miss Elizabeth Brownson, and Mr. W. B. Foster, reported that Mr. Bow had made arrangements to provide each Extension class with a questionnaire, by means of which it would be possible to obtain a complete list of all candidates for a degree. As a result, the entire Senior Class of June, 1924, was called together for a meeting on the evening of Tuesday, April 22nd.

At a meeting held on April 29th, the Nominating Committee submitted its report, and the following officers were elected by ballot:

Mr. Cecil D. Mattoon, President
Miss Anna M. Engel, Vice-President.

By means of the strength of the organization, which was a direct result of the co-operation of the Class members and able officers, a strong Class spirit developed, a number of very successful social affairs were arranged, and all of the details of the Commencement season were carried through.

It is an honor that we, the members of the Class of 1924, are to be the first to receive degrees bestowed by Detroit Teachers College. Such an honor inspires us with the determination to so measure up to the high standards of our College that our appreciation of this honor may find expression in Service. May all who follow us catch a vision of this, the College of the Future!

And now, farewell, dear Alma Mater. We pass through your kindly portals into the larger theater of world drama. As you have given of your best, so may your sons and daughters fulfill your most aspiring dreams, that you may be happy to acknowledge them as your Alumni.

Sophomore Farewell

*The time has come to say farewell;
Our hearts with grief o'er filled.
There's sadness in our parting words
As we think back our happy years.
The pictures painted one by one
As Freshmen, Sophs, and now
We cheer you whom we all hold dear,
T. C. we sing to you.*

*School days are the best days
That the future will always remember;
These dear sincere ways,
The friends we've all made
Will live always in our hearts
Long after we've left our fellows
To travel life's long billows, we'll remember
Always ever, our Alma Mater, ever*

History Frosh Class

THE Freshman class as it stands at the present, entered Detroit Teachers College, September, 1923, with an enrollment of three hundred three members. After the usual three or four weeks of "getting acquainted," the class, as a whole, settled down to the task of becoming teachers.

The general characteristics of the Frosh group were not out of the ordinary; the usual panic caused by the abundance of knowledge handed out with a warning to "take only small doses," held the hearts of the newcomers. And quite according to the rule, the Freshmen promptly proceeded to take everything "at one gulp." That last named characteristic seems to be peculiar to almost every Freshman class that enters the College.

As a break in the school routine, the Frosh contingent staged their annual "Frolic." It was a brilliant evening affair, and quite an occasion in the lives of the green ones. In between times, as it were, little class programs were given by volunteer talent from the Freshman group. These little skits made another pleasant diversion from strenuous school work. The last Freshman social duty was the St. Patrick's Party given under the auspices of the College Union. Appropriate green and white festoons decorated the hall, upheld by a predominance of that same color in the attire of the assemblage.

Now, toward the end of the first school year, the same green, unsophisticated Freshman class of September, have acquired a quiet air of dignity, and an appreciation of the good things which they are being trained to do. And with that thought of the realization of the teacher's mission, the Frosh class of 1923 is preparing to enter the enviable inner circle of the Sophomore class.

T. C. Union

THE Union of Detroit Teachers College is primarily a student organized, and student governed organization. Every regularly enrolled day student and all members of the faculty are members of the Union. The organization aims to encourage a true school spirit and interest in social and school activities.

The Union is composed of a Cabinet, a Council, Classes, Faculty, Publications Clubs and all other organizations approved by the Council. The Council is a body of students and faculty which has complete charge of the affairs of the Union. They meet every week and are, in general, the legislative and governing body. The Council may refer matters to the Cabinet, which is a smaller group composed of the Presidents of the classes, the President and Secretary of the Union, the Dean and Assistant Dean and the Supervisor of Student Activities.

The officers of the Union are a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary and a Treasurer. These officers also serve this capacity in the Council. Their election is held on the second last Thursday of each semester. A Nominating Committee is appointed to select the candidates for the offices and the whole school votes by secret ballot.

The membership of the Union is organized into classes for the purpose of discussing or receiving notices of all matters concerning the daily school affairs. These are designated as Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes. Each student is placed in a class according to the number of semester hours he has to his credit. The classes have their own officers, elected by secret ballot by the members of the class. This election takes place at the first regular meeting of each semester. The officers consist of a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary and a Treasurer. The class President and one other member of each class are present each week at the council meeting.

In carrying out the activities of the Union, a number of permanent committees are formed. They are the Membership, Social, Publicity, Program, House and Point System Committees. They have definite duties to perform, all directed toward the betterment of the college as a whole.

The membership committee takes charge of all matters pertaining to the privileges and duties of individual or organized membership in the Union. The Membership aids the Point System Committee in keeping a record of students in the various clubs. The latter is a means by which every person is given equal opportunity in participation in school life. No one person is allowed to take entire, or too much, responsibility.

The publicity for the college is taken care of by the Publicity Committee. The duty of the Social Committee is providing and co-ordinating all student activities. It is this group who arranges the social calendar. The Program Committee is responsible for the student assemblies.

Through the efforts of Adolph W. Faber, the chairman of the Constitution Committee and his associates, the Union has a Constitution which ably defines the Union and its complete organization.

The Student Council of Detroit Teachers College is a comparatively young organization. Three years ago this body was composed of the Union Officers, Class Presidents and Chairmen of Union Committees. The College was organized into a Union and the Council became the student governing body under the guidance of the first president, Miss Lydia Mithoff.

The Council is now a larger group and is composed of the most capable students in the College who are chosen to formulate and pass on laws relative to the management of the Union. Representatives from the Faculty also are members of this illustrious group.

The most notable function of the year is the annual Council Banquet which is an elaborate affair and is eagerly awaited. Second in importance in the social life of the Council is the annual Council Tea given for the Practice Teaching Department.

The Council is the most active and most prominent group in the Union. The measure of its success is in the strength of our Union.

PUBLICATIONS

T. C. Times ■■ Annual

THE history of the Publications of Detroit Teachers College must necessarily be brief since they have only recently been organized. Those now in existence are the T. C. Times, the Annual and the Handbook.

The first publication, the T. C. Times, had its foundation in the Union Publicity Committee who took charge of the publicity for the school in the Detroit papers. In the spring of 1920, this committee published the first paper, an eight-page monthly issue. The T. C. Times soon became a school project with representation in the Council. At present we have in our college a regular five column paper governed by a well chosen staff. The Times is represented as a Charter Member of The Michigan College Press Association, and in the year 1923, sent four delegates to the Annual Convention which was held at the Michigan State Normal College, Ypsilanti, in the persons of Edna Apel, Faculty Advisor; Marjorie Boate, Editor; Celestine Minard, News and Literary and Willbur Chapman, Associate Editor.

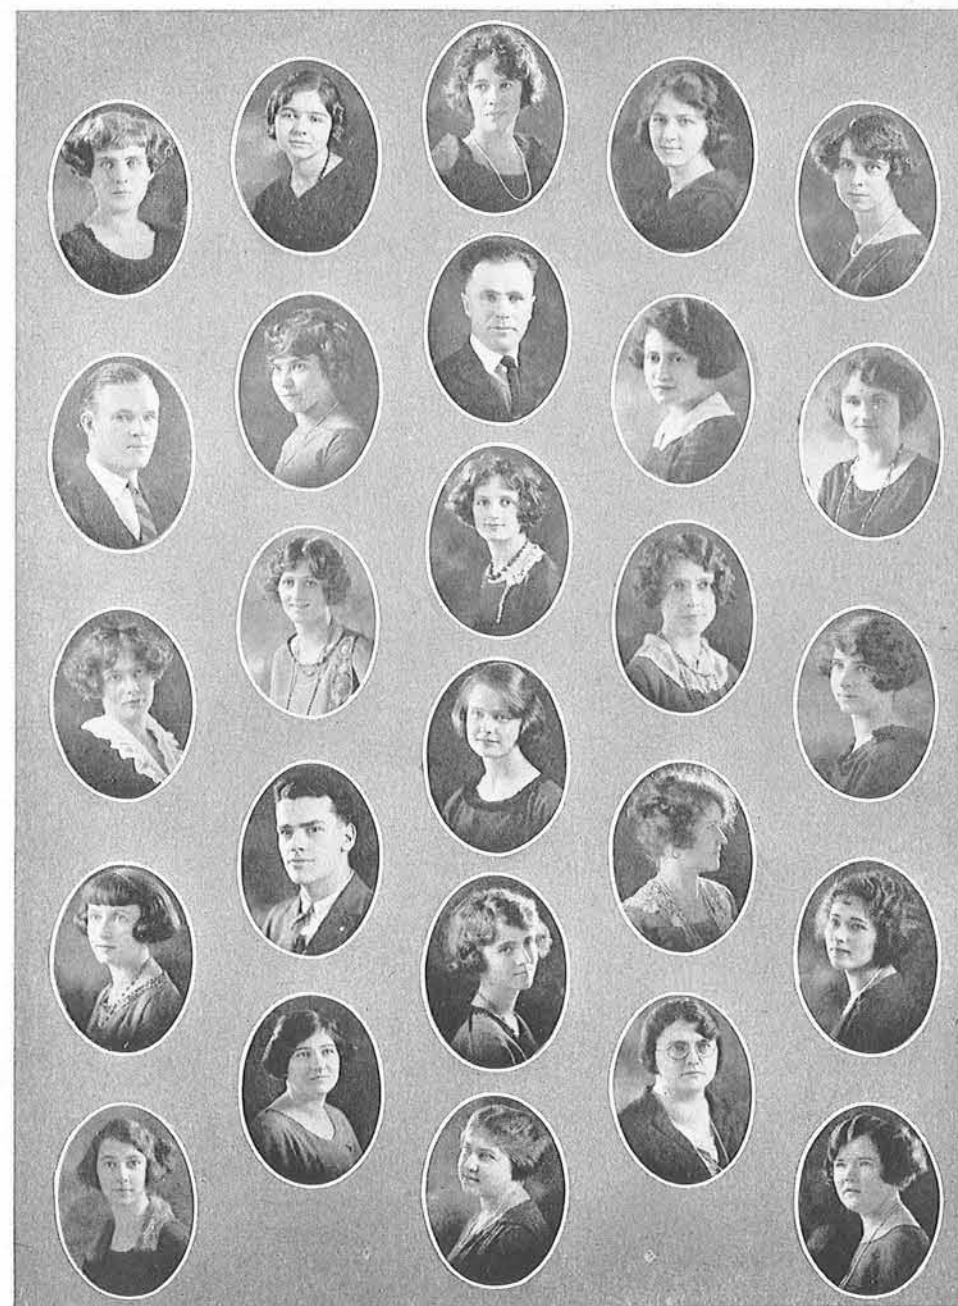

In 1924, the delegates numbered five and were also representing the Annual publication. They were Edna Apel, Majorie Boate, and Marian McCailum from the T. C. Times, and Celestine Minard and Clara Stratemeyer from the Annual Staff. The convention meets at Teachers College in 1929.

The Teachers College Annual began in the second semester of the 1922-23 school year as a class project. It was not an annual as we ordinarily think of one, but a pictorial history of the college during that year. The class produced a commendable piece of work for the time they had to put on it. Willbur Chapman acted as Editor-in-Chief, and C. Arthur Blakley took up the task of Business Manager. From a class project it has grown to be a school project. This year an attempt has been made to put out a typical College Annual.

The Handbook

THE need of a handbook, which would offer a few helpful hints to the entering Freshmen and make his student life in the college more pleasant and successful, was felt by the student body at large.

An appeal was made to the student Council in the winter of 1921 and '22. The Council, after frank discussion, appointed Violet Peacock as chairman of a student handbook committee. In the spring of 1922, the first college handbook appeared which included "Facts for Freshmen," news pertaining to all clubs, societies and organizations of College life, coupled with the social calendar for the year.

The following year, 1922-23, the handbook committee drew up an editorial staff with Urban Hartung as editor and Laura Osborn, Eloise Ramsey and E. G. Blackstone as faculty advisors. This year the book was larger both in content and size and included a faculty and student directory.

In the fall of 1923-24, the handbook had become such a part of the student body that one of the Freshmen English classes made the book a subject for an English project. This class made up the editorial staff of the new "Green Book," with Vivian Maddocks as editor. This year the book became one of literary value, giving interesting accounts of student activities, the administration and various publications of the College. It did not include the directory, however, because the T. C. Times had taken over this phase of the work. This book was dedicated to Ida E. Gratton, the instructor of the English class in recognition of her unflinching service to the students at Detroit Teachers College.

In the second semester of 1924, the handbook retained the size of the "Green Book" but changed its colors to those of purple and gold, the college colors. It includes the faculty and student directory.

In the year 1920 there were very few organizations in Teachers College. The membership committee of the Union had charge of the fostering and supervising of all clubs. In February of this year a group of twelve girls felt the need and decided they would like to have a Y. W. C. A. organization in the College, and an appeal was made to Miss Fiero, then faculty advisor of the membership committee, who immediately communicated with various secretaries in the city and made very careful inquiries of the National organization as well.

In the spring of 1920, even before organizing the "Y" a campaign was carried on and two girls were sent to the National Conference at Geneva, Wis. Later in the fall, the girls elected a temporary chairman and drew up a slate of officers.

The Y. W. C. A., of Teachers College, is separate from the City of Detroit "Y" but is now a member of the National Organization. The city, however, has rendered much help through its hospitality and courtesy.

The organization with its philanthropic and christian ideals is invaluable to the student body of Teachers' College.

The graduating class of D. T. C. 1921-22 having a desire for personal improvement through travel, organized and formed a club which was known as the Washington Group. As a result of their efforts, twenty-nine members went to Washington, D. C., accompanied by Miss Worden. Their trip proved so delightful that they were unwilling to disband their club, so after graduation the members re-organized as an Alumni group and called themselves the Driftwood Club. In the summer of 1923 the Driftwood Club toured the Atlantic Coast. Their future plans include the Pacific Coast, the Canadian Rockies for the summer of 1924, and a tour of the European Continent in 1925.

The class of 1922-23 recognizing the combined pleasures and opportunities afforded the members of the Washington Group continued the life of the year-old organization and took the name of "The Wanderlust Club of Detroit Teachers College." This has since become a permanent club of Detroit Teachers College. These members attempted to reduce the traveling expenses of the club by giving food and candy sales. From this organization, thirty-nine members went to Washington, D. C. They were accompanied by Miss Mildred Connelly and Mrs. Ida Gratton Youngjohn.

This, the third year of the Wanderlust Club has proved to be the most successful year in the life of the organization. The annual trip, including Philadelphia and New York City as well as Washington, D. C., was enjoyed by about fifty girls accompanied by Miss Waterbury and Miss Stratemeyer.

Among the several clubs of Detroit Teachers College stands the Rural Club, an organization having for its purpose the promotion of the interests of rural education and county life among the student body.

It was not until the year 1919 that such a body existed. In fact it is rather unique among city normals to have a Rural Department stressing rural conditions and problems. In the fall of 1919, Mary E. Howe, director of Rural Education in the college, stimulated interest among the student body to such an extent that twelve girls, all interested in rural education, banded together under the leadership of Gladys Juers and formed the charter members of the Detroit Teachers College Rural Club. It was during this year that Detroit was growing rapidly and embracing great spans of territory which had been rural. The zealous members of the club realized that during this transition period it was good for the student body to study the problems in their original laboratories and formulate opinions on some of the solutions made.

As time went on the club flourished until at the present time it has a membership of one hundred fifty young women, with Alicemay Knack as president, all working together with the original worthy purpose as their goal. Each year from the time of its organization the club has made a trip to the Michigan Agricultural College at Lansing, Michigan. This is one event that is never forgotten by those participating. All during the year the club gives dances and parties and with the approach of summer these festivities turn into outdoor picnics.

The Dramatic Club was organized for the purpose of studying and producing plays of artistic merit and literary worth. It is one of the most recently organized clubs in the college and has at all times boasted a large membership. Among the outstanding productions of 1923-1924 have been: "Little Women" "Will O' the Wisp," "The Faraway Princess" and "The Bank Account." The members are also prominent on the program of the Annual "Y" Vodvil.

The Art Club was organized in the fall of 1923 for the purpose of developing art interests and social and inspirational growth. Members are Special Art Students.

With the co-operation of the faculty and college the club has had a most interesting career. Among the outstanding events were a trip "en masse" to the Midwinter Conference of Michigan Teachers at the Michigan State Normal School at Ypsilanti, a Halloween Party given by the president, and a Theater Party.

Many group trips to the Art Lectures, given at the Art Museum, were also included in the social calendar.

The official costume of the Art Club is the Tam and Smock. This is a unique custom practiced by all.

The organization of the Outdoor Club occurred in October, 1920 in response to a request that a Club of this type be introduced on the campus. Charter membership numbered twenty-five with Miss Fiero and Miss Murray as faculty advisors. An average of fifty students is at present maintained.

The primary purpose of the Club is to stimulate love of outdoor interests and characteristic of the social activities are, "weenie" roasts, bacon bats, house parties, week-ending at lakes, theater parties, hay-rides, and skating parties.

The club stands for an ideal type of outdoor activity during school life, and is a most successful organization.

An enthusiastic group of Freshman girls entered Teachers College in September, 1921, and with their advent into their new world came also the Sporting Club, which is one of the most flourishing of four college clubs. Identified among the charter members were Florence Chaffee, Katherine McLogan, Theresa Breen, Genevieve Burns, and Joyce Paull who were destined to have notable careers at T. C. Miss Ellen Husben was the first president, and Miss Jacobs, Miss Henze and Miss Gratton were faculty advisors.

The outstanding social event is the mock and formal initiation which is followed by a banquet.

The Sporting Club Hop, which was held at Wark's Ballroom was an interesting feature of the 1924 program.

The Junto Club was formed by a group of students interested in literature, and the development of self with an aim of service to others. It was organized in October, 1922, through the efforts of Marie Wiedemaier and Fanny Brown. Marie Wiedemaier was the first president. The charter members numbered twenty-four, but the club membership soon grew to over forty active members.

One of the results of this desire for service is the development of the "Junto Opportunities." These are conferences held between students and faculty members. They afford an opportunity for students to discuss their problems in an informal manner with the various faculty members. Besides trying to carry out these initial aims of service to others, self development, and the development of interest in literature, it has provided for social activities, thereby creating an additional bond of interest for its members. Miss Rasey, faculty advisor of the club, has been a great help in advising and assisting us in our endeavors to make the work of our club successful and in furthering those ideals upon which that work is based.

The Kinderband, one of our younger organizations, has won for itself a place of importance in the college.

Formed in January, 1922, by a group of girls supervised by Miss Osborn, the club immediately attracted a great deal of attention.

In 1923, after the graduation of Geneva Denio, Vera Lord assumed the responsibility of leading the band to further success.

This year not only has the membership increased, but also the variety of instruments. In place of the regular accompanist, there appeared a typical old-fashioned school teacher.

Besides playing for assembly, the club gave a special program for the annual Orphan Party, November 23.

The band not only affords amusement for the college, but it demonstrates what may be done in the line of rythmic and musical education.

ORCHESTRA

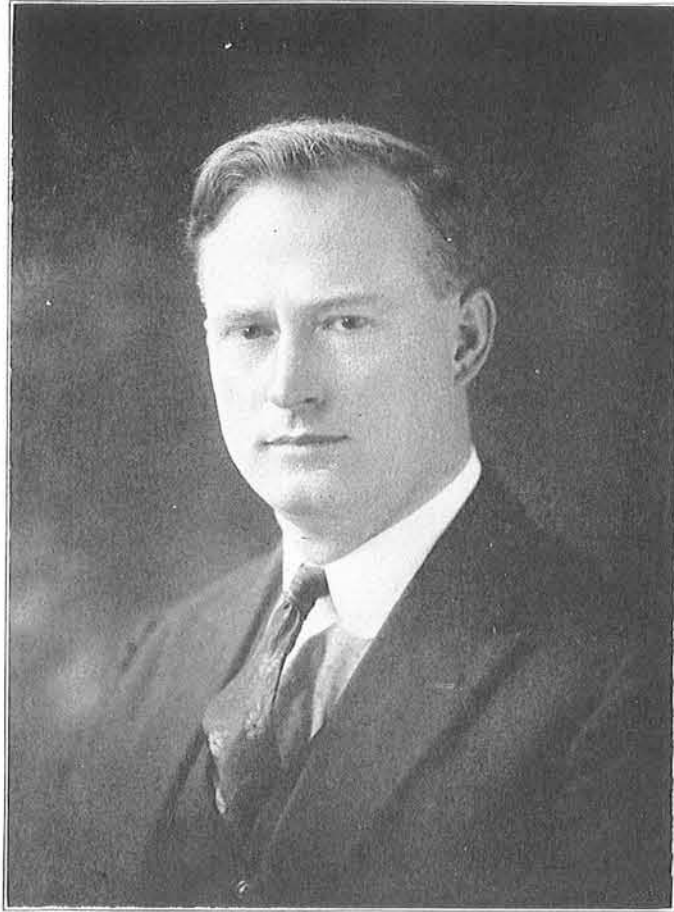

Teachers College Orchestra was organized under the direction of the Music Department and consists of eight members. The instruments played are four violins, one cornet, and two clarinets with the piano.

Mr. C. T. Heaviland is acting as director with the assistance of Miss Harriet Petry as faculty advisor.

The orchestra has furnished music for college dances, teas, and assembly programs, and its members have been prominent in the Annual "Y" Vodvil.

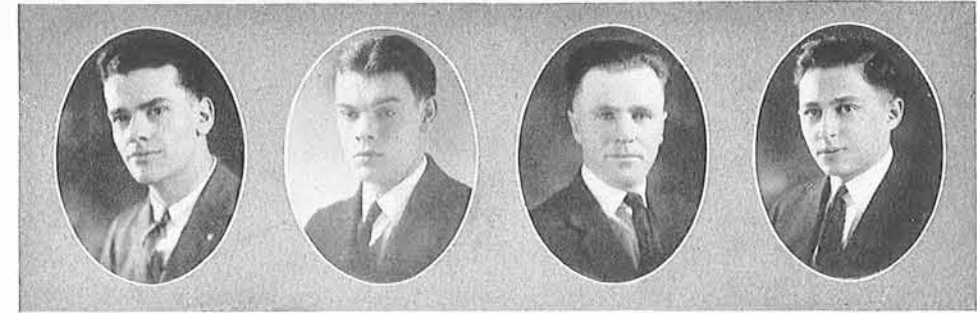

MR. E. W. McFARLAND

Mr. McFarland is the faculty advisor and sponsor for men's activities at Teachers College. He is tireless in his efforts to encourage and promote all men's activities and it is largely due to him that men's athletics have enjoyed the success they have.

THE history of men's athletics at Detroit Teachers College does not date very far back. It was a little more than a year ago that enough men attended the college to make men's athletics possible. At that time, in December, 1922, an Athletic Association was organized, similar to the Women's Athletic Association with every man enrolled at Detroit Teachers College a member. Mr. McFarland was chosen as the Association's faculty advisor.

The Men's Athletic Association has acted in conjunction with the Men's Group in encouraging and carrying on all men's activities although its real purpose was to further men's athletics at Teachers College. To this end, the organization has been quite successful. Basketball was the only sport extensively engaged in. The basketball team was the first men's team of Teachers College and they did very well considering the handicaps under which they worked. They won a majority of their games which were played with some of the best teams in the state. This year's team, the second in the history of the college, promises to better the record of the first team of last year.

Inter-Class Athletics

THE first inter-class basketball game between men of Teachers College occurred last year. The game was strenuously contested and ended with the Sophomores on the heavy end of a 48-12 score. This year's game proved no exception to the rule in point of keen competition. The Sophs were again victorious but the Freshmen played much better as the score 14-9 indicates. This game was featured by hard and rough playing. It seemed as though "Al" Wright and "Neurone" Spalter tried to better each other in "roughing it up." The dent made by Joe Simone's head in the gymnasium floor in this game may still be seen and many of the players still bear marks from this struggle. The veterans really won the game for the Sophs, Kerber, Sophomore, showing the way with four baskets from the field. Much good material was also uncovered for the varsity squad in Bowen, Ziegler, Yost, Simmons and Knighton.

The Women's Athletic Association which includes every member of the Union was organized in 1921 by Ada Boville. Since then it has been successfully led by Mary Fulcher, Josephine Stauffer, Harriett Crudden, Sylvia Schwartz and at present by Marion Pearson.

The purpose of this organization is to encourage athletics and to promote school and class spirit.

In addition to conducting inter-class and inter-school athletics the association also sponsors two big athletic events in the college namely: "The Ice Carnival" and "Field Day."

The Ice Carnival is a brilliant affair. The rink adjoining the college is effectively lighted by means of Japanese lanterns which sway to and fro in the brisk January breezes. Hundreds of skaters dressed in white, glide merrily around the rink to music, stopping only once in a while to gather around in groups and watch the fancy figure skaters perform.

Field Day which is sponsored by the association is a gala day for the college. The "red" and "green" are seen everywhere! Members of each class form in line with their banner at the head and parade to Ferry Field where the exciting events occur. There is intense rivalry in basketball, baseball, volley-ball, and tennis. Each class attempts to show its superiority—hence all help to cheer their side to victory. The 1923 tennis tournament ended with an exciting two hour battle between Josephine Stauffer, sophomore, and Marion Pearson, freshman, Miss Pearson being the winner. The Freshmen carried off honors in nearly every entry and thus won the day.

BASKETBALL

Basketball is one of the most popular sports at D. C. T. and all games are looked forward to with enthusiasm. The season just completed was a very successful one for our team as the summary below will indicate. Though the schedule included only seven games, three of which resulted in victory and four in defeat, all the games were very close and exciting.

Summary of games:

Feb. 11	D. T. C.	22	—City College	27
Feb. 21	D. T. C.	48	—Highland Park J. C.	13
Feb. 25	D. T. C.	20	—C. M. E.	32

FIELD HOCKEY

Hockey playing has been confined almost entirely to the classes during the last season. The only game played by the varsity team was with the crack Southeastern High team, which downed them by an 8 to 0 score. Several games were scheduled with the Michigan Field Hockey Association but each time weather conditions intervened and the games were never played.

The chief purpose of the second school team was to provide substitutes for the varsity team.

Class hockey consisted of three spirited tilts between the sophomores and freshmen. Again the freshmen defeated their older and wiser classmates in two of the three contests, thereby winning the series.

The summary:

Game	Score	Score
1. Sophomore	3	Freshmen 3
2. Sophomore	0	Freshmen 5
3. Sophomore	0	Freshmen 3

SWIMMING TEAM

Only one varsity meet has been staged to date and that was with the Michigan State Normal from Ypsilanti. This meet was held in the Northwestern tank and although our girls competed bravely the Ypsilanti mermaids outclassed them and took the meet with a 34 to 15 score.

Two exciting interclass meets were held in our own tank before an enthusiastic audience. The freshman took the first one 40-12, but the sophomores showed their superiority by defeating them 55 to 35 in the second meet. A balloon race was an amusing feature of the second meet. The object of the race was to see which class could blow or bat their balloons to the opposite side of the tank and place them on the edge first. The freshmen succeeded in winning this event much to the chagrin of sophomores who were evidently too confident.

BASKETBALL AND VOLLEYBALL

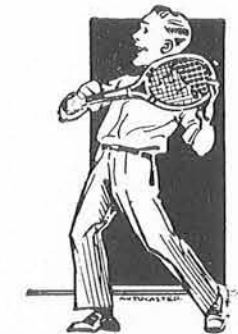

Baseball and volleyball are really considered to be minor sports at Teachers College. However, many surprises and upsets have occurred on Field Day in these two sports. There is always an opportunity for the unexpected to happen and often these games determine the victor.

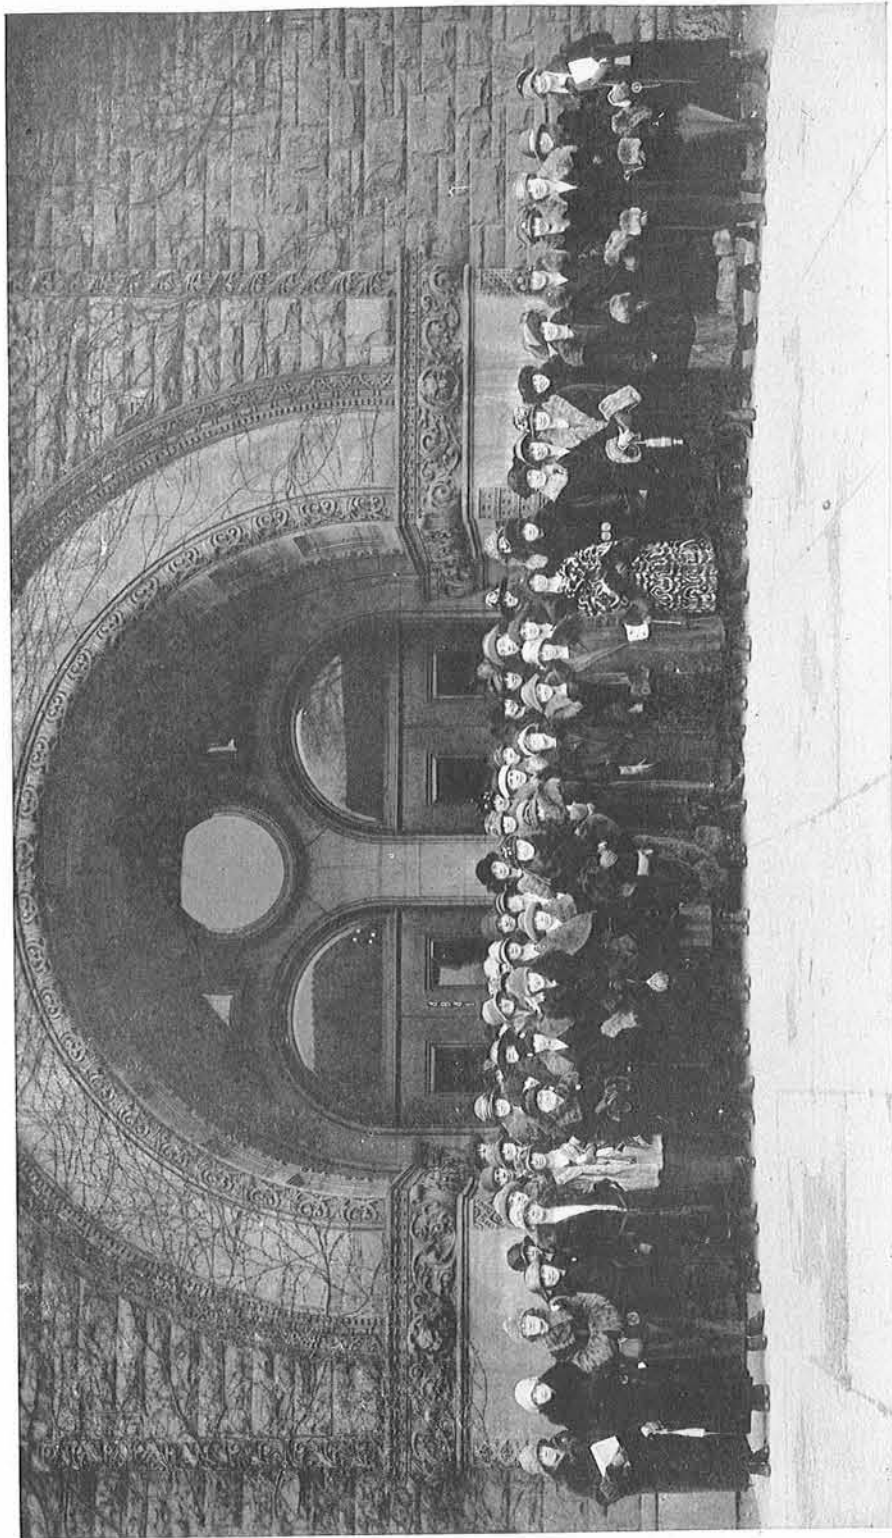

TENNIS

Tennis is rapidly rising from a minor sport at Teachers College to a major one.

Last year one of the most exciting events on Field Day was the final of the tennis tournament. Amid a crowd of enthusiastic class rooters, Josephine Stauffer, representing the Sophs, and Marion Pearson, representing the Frosh, fought for two hours. Miss Pearson captured the event.

This season in addition to having a school tournament we are also going to have a school Tennis Team which will compete with other colleges.

ACHIEVEMENT

The goal of every ambitious man and firm is typified in the rapid growth of the Jahn & Ollier Engraving Company—the universal esteem in which their art and plates are held by the large national advertisers—and the enviable reputation for prompt deliveries which they enjoy.

Delivering this same high quality and careful personal supervision to schools has built up for us the largest college and high school annual engraving business in America—400 books yearly.

Thirty thousand square feet of floor space (4 floors) and over two hundred and fifty skilled employees are required to meet the constant demand for "J&O" commercial photographs, art, color process plates and photo engraving (one complete floor is devoted to color process work).

Intelligent supervision of all work by many skillful office service men eliminates your troubles. Sales service men sent everywhere.
