The UAW Fair Practices and Anti-Discrimination Department, established at the 1946 convention under the direction of Walter Reuther and William Oliver, mandated the formation of local union Fair Practices Committees to promote fair employment practices and to eliminate discrimination in the workplace. Oliver remained director until his retirement in 1980.

In addition to investigating complaints of the violation of the union's anti-discrimination policy, the department organized human relations programs and projects in conjunction with the UAW Education Department and pressed for enactment of federal and state FEPC and open housing legislation.

The papers of the UAW Fair Practices and Anti-Discrimination Department consist of correspondence, reports, minutes, grievances, press releases, clippings, articles, pamphlets and other printed material reflecting the department's efforts to enhance the civil rights of American workers.
