The UAW Women's Department was established by the UAW's International Executive Board in 1955 in order to address the problems faced by women workers and to involve women in the administration of the UAW. Dorothy Haener was appointed to the Women's Department as its International Representative in 1961 and kept that position until her retirement in 1982. In keeping with the mission of the Women's Department, Haener encouraged women to be active in the union.

In addition to her involvement in the Women's Department, Haener participated in a number of political, civic, and church organizations to promote women's rights and human rights. She served as Commissioner of the International Women's Year, was a founding member of NOW and the National Women's Political Caucus, co-chair of the Michigan Task Force on Sexual Harassment in the Workplace and the Michigan ERAmerica Committee, and a tireless advocate for employment equity, reproductive choice, children, the aged, and the poor on countless other task forces and committees.

The papers of the UAW Women's Department: Dorothy Haener Collection consist of correspondence, meeting material, conference material, clippings, publications, and reports. A transcript of an oral interview with Dorothy Haener may be found in the 20th Century Trade Union Woman series of oral histories on deposit at the Reuther Library.
