Bolstered by the rank and file movement in the early 1970s, Sombrotto was overwhelmingly elected president following the adoption of reforms he advocated to make the union leadership more responsive to its members. His accomplishments included wage increases, improving working conditions, passing reform of the Hatch Act, and actively promoting community service and charity fund raising including the annual NALC Food Drive. The records of NALC President's Office: Vincent R. Sombrotto document his presidency, beginning with his first term in 1979. The materials in the collection create a cohesive picture of his time in office, detailing day-to-day activities and administration, organizational affiliations, political action, community service, and interaction with the union membership.

History

Vincent R. Sombrotto was elected the 16th president of the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) in 1978, serving nearly 24 years until his retirement in December 2002.

Sombrotto was born in New York City of Italian and Irish ancestry. He served with distinction in the Navy in World War II before becoming a letter carrier in 1947. Unable to support his growing family, he knew firsthand how letter carriers suffered due to low pay and harsh working conditions—issues that led him to take a leadership role during the 1970 Wildcat Postal Strike.

Following the strike, Sombrotto and the "rank and file movement" that coalesced around him pushed to maintain the momentum. Taking over the leadership of the New York City Branch, they rallied support with a pledge to give individual letter carriers a political voice in their own union. Installed as Branch 36 President in 1971, Sombrotto worked to fulfill the promises of the rank and file platform—moving their focus to the national NALC arena and introducing a number of national convention resolutions to make the union leadership more responsive to the members, including replacing the old proxy system with one man, one vote democracy. By 1978, those reforms had been adopted, and that fall Sombrotto was overwhelmingly elected National President.

President Sombrotto's accomplishments for letter carriers and for the union include seven highly productive rounds of collective bargaining that provided basic wage increases in every contract, preserved uncapped cost-of-living adjustments, and improved working conditions. Furthermore, in 1993 the NALC played a critical role in winning reform of the Hatch Act, and Sombrotto's bargaining exploits were highlighted by the historic 1999 Grade 6 upgrade.

A sense of civic responsibility prompted President Sombrotto to promote the letter carrier tradition of assisting those in need. From raising money for charities, volunteering time and resources to community projects, and offering a helping hand to the less fortunate, the union's active support has raised millions of dollars for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, and the annual NALC Food Drive has become the world's largest one-day food collection.

In addition to NALC's activities, throughout his career, Sombrotto has also contributed his expertise and guidance to numerous governmental, national non-profit and charitable boards. But wherever the battlefield—negotiations, arbitration, the courts, or Capitol Hill—President Sombrotto's efforts have made the letter carrier's job more rewarding and the NALC a stronger union.

Scope and Content

The Records of the National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) President's Office document the presidency of Vincent R. Sombrotto. Beginning with his first term in 1979, the materials in the collection create a cohesive picture of his time in office, including correspondence that details the day-to-day activities and administration of the president. Also included in the collection are the documents and correspondence of his presidency concerning his dealings with organizations and entities such as the United States Postal Service (USPS), the AFL-CIO, Postal, Telegraph and Telephone International (PTTI), and other postal labor unions. An important aspect of the union has been its involvement in lobbying, legislation, and political action, evidenced in the collection through the correspondence with Congress and the White House, political affiliations, congressional testimony, and the political action fund (COLCPE).

Involvement and service in the community has led the NALC to develop numerous programs and charities documented in the records, including the Carrier Alert Program, Hero of the Year award, raising funds for research for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, and the creation of the nation's largest annual one-day food collection, the NALC Food Drive. A commitment to service is also reflected through the involvement of Sombrotto in numerous committees and boards, such as the American Red Cross and United Way.

Furthermore, the operations of the union and headquarters, various departments, National Officers, National Business Agents (NBA) and staff are well documented. Additionally, as members are an integral part of the union, correspondence between Sombrotto and branches and individual members across the country can be found throughout the collection.
