Part I of the papers of George Crockett, Jr. were placed in the Archives of Labor and Urban Affairs on February 3, 1968 by George Crockett, Jr. They were open for research on January 17, 1969. Part II of the papers of George Crockett, Jr. were placed in the Archives of Labor and Urban Affairs in 1994 by his son, George Crockett, III, in 1994 and by George Crockett, Jr. in August 1996. Part II of the collection was opened for research in July 2006. Since the original donation, both George Crockett, jr. and the Crockett estate designated all records deposited by George Crockett, jr. as part of the Damon J. Keith Law Collection of African American Legal History.

George Crockett, Jr. was bom August 10, 1909, in Jacksonville, Fl. He is a graduate of Morehouse College (1931) and the University of Michigan Law School (1934). Between degrees, he joined the Marine Cooks and Steward's Union (1931) and waited on tables aboard ships on trips between the U.S. and South America. He practiced law for a short period in Florida and West Virginia before becoming a lawyer with the U.S. Dept. of Labor (1939-1943) and a hearings examiner with the Fair Employment Practices Commission (1943). At this time, he was a member of the Government Employees Union (CIO). Thereafter, he worked with the UAW as a consultant on minorities (1944), director of its Fair Employment Practices Committee (1945), and then as an administrative assistant within its secretary treasurer's office (1946). During this period he also wrote a weekly column for the Michigan Chronicle. (1944-1946) and was a member of the National C.I.O. Anti-Discrimination Commission (1944-1945).

Crockett established a private practice and became one of five lawyers who represented the leadership of the Communists Party who had been charged with violating the Smith Act (1949-1950); he spent four months in jail for contempt in connection with this case. Thereafter, he became a founding partner of Goodman, Crockett, Eden and Robb, the first known interracial law partnership in the U.S. (1950-1966). Following an unsuccessful bid for the city council (1965), he was elected as a judge of the Detroit Records Court (1966-1978). After a short stint as the acting city corporation counsel for Detroit, Crockett then served five terms as a congressman (1980-1991) representing Michigan's 13th congressional district comprising a portion of Detroit. He died in 1997 at the age of 88.

Part I of the George Crockett, Jr. papers contains clippings, correspondences, and drafts of a column he wrote for the Michigan Chronicle during the mid 1940s entitled, "Labor Looks Ahead." Part II, which is the larger part of the collection, primarily contains records that reflect Crockett's activities as a Detroit Records Court judge, including correspondences, memos, agenda, minutes, various administrative records, reports, clippings, proposals, pleadings, articles, legal opinions and memoranda, court reform proposals, surveys, organizational charts, court orders, and tributes/testimonials, amongst other records. Crockett was presiding judge of that body in 1974. Part II of the collection provides a unique glimpse into the day-to-day activities of the Detroit Records Court during an important period in Detroit's history. That Crockett challenged the court's way of doing business, particularly as regards African Americans, makes these records particularly valuable.
