History

Philip Slomovitz, called the dean of Jewish-American journalists, was born in Russia in 1896 and emigrated to the United States in 1910, settling in Bayonne, New Jersey. He earned a degree in journalism at the University of Michigan, where he wrote for The Michigan Daily. During his early career, he worked on the copy desk and as a reporter for The Detroit News and as an editor of The Jewish Pictorial. He also worked for The Jewish Telegraphic Agency news service and was editor and columnist for The Jewish Chronicle. In 1942, he founded The Jewish News in Detroit, which then absorbed the Jewish Chronicle. For almost fifty years, until the sale of The Jewish News in 1984, Slomovitz used the paper as a vehicle to champion Jewish causes as well as promote amity among diverse peoples. He lived through and reported upon many history-making events, including Henry Ford's anti-Semitism; broadcast propaganda and Vatican silencing of the Royal Oak (Michigan) radio priest, Father Charles Coughlin; the founding of the United Nations; the birth of the state of Israel; and the trial of Adolph Eichmann, Hitler's director of the "final solution." Slomovitz relied on his memory and his nine filing cabinets of clippings, articles, personal correspondence, and background information to tie current events to previous episodes in Jewish history. Slomovitz was a founder of the Detroit Roundtable of Christians and Jews. He was a strong supporter of the Jewish Red Cross (Magen David) and served as president of the local branch of the Jewish National Fund, the American Jewish Press Association, the Zionist Organization of Detroit, and the Detroit chapter of the American Jewish Congress. He also served on the board of the United Hebrew Schools. He was the author of two books, "Without Malice" and "Purely Commentary: Philip Slomovitz's 60 Years as a Newspaperman." His editorials and columns sometimes received national distribution. Although legally blind for most of his life, Slomovitz typed his own material until 1991. He was the recipient of many honors, including induction into the Michigan Journalism Hall of Fame in 1993. He died that same year.
