Grace Hospital opened for patients in December, 1888 with seventy-five beds. Named for the late daughter of one of the hospital's benefactors, Senator James McMillan, it was built on a plot of land at the corner of Willis Avenue and John R Street donated by wealthy Detroit real estate developer Amos Chafee. During its first year, the hospital admitted 617 patients and treated 3,845 in its free outpatient clinic, one of the first such operations in the Midwest. In 1889 a Board of Lady Managers was established to act with the Board of Trustees in administering the hospital. Mrs. John S. Newberry served as its first president, succeeded on her death in 1912 by her daughter, Mrs. Helen N. Joy.

Grace Hospital expanded rapidly over the next several decades, serving over 15,000 inpatients and 90,000 outpatients by its fiftieth year, 1938, and opening the Northwest Branch in 1942. Building additions in 1953 and 1964 made Grace the second largest voluntary non-profit hospital in Michigan. Grace and Harper Hospitals merged in 1973 and consolidated with other hospitals in the newly-created Detroit Medical Center in 1985.

The Grace Hospital Training School for Nurses, one of the first in the United States, was organized in 1889 with fourteen students under the direction of Eugenie Hibbard, and closed its doors in 1980, having graduated over seven thousand nurses in its 91-year history.

Part 1

Part 1 of the Grace Hospital Collection consists of the minutes of the Board of Trustees, the Board of Lady Managers, the Medical Staff Executive Committee, and other hospital committees, correspondence, clippings, reports, and publications relating to the administration of the hospital and the Detroit Medical Center, medical procedures and education, the activities of the Grace Hospital School of Nursing and the hospital Women's Auxiliary, and to the history of health care and hospital development in Detroit in the twentieth century.

Grace Hospital CollectionPart 2

1880-1993

6 Storage Boxes

1 Oversize Box

Part 2 of the Grace Hospital Collection contains research notes, photocopies of clippings and articles, oral history tapes and transcripts, publications, administrative records, and correspondence relating to Grace Hospital and the Grace Hospital School of Nursing. A large amount of material in this collection was compiled by Dr. Philip Mason.

The oral history interviews were conducted by Dr. Philip Mason as part of his research on the history of Grace Hospital and The Grace Hospital School of Nursing. No part of the transcript may be photocopied or otherwise reproduced or quoted for publication without the written permission of the interviewee or his/her designee. The audio tapes were transferred to the Library's Audio-Visual Department.
