History

Dr. Cornelius Golightly was born in Waterford, Mississippi, in 1917. At age 17, Cornelius attended Talladega College, graduating in 1938. Afterwards, Golightly attended the University of Michigan, where he received his Master of Arts and PhD in philosophy in 1939 and 1941, respectively. Dr. Golightly began post-doctoral work as a Rosenwald Fellow at Harvard University in 1941 and was hired as an instructor for Howard University in 1942. In 1943, Dr. Golightly became a Compliance Analyst for the federal government with the Fair Employment Practices Committee (FEPC) until the end of World War II.

Dr. Golightly was an academic philosopher at Olivet College from 1945 until 1949. However, when academic freedom for the faculty became too restricted, in part due to the Cold War, Golightly resigned from his position there. Dr. Golightly was almost immediately hired to work for the University of Wisconsin at Madison. He remained there until 1955, when he was hired to work at the Milwaukee site of UW. Golightly remained at UWM from 1955 until 1969, when he was appointed Associate Dean of Wayne State University's Philosophy Department, where he also served as a Professor. Dr. Golightly was the first African American to teach in the philosophy department at WSU. In 1970, Golightly was appointed to sit on the Detroit School Board, and was elected as President in 1973. Golightly was the first African American male to be elected President of the Detroit School Board. He would remain President until 1976, unfortunately, as Dr. Golightly passed away from a brain hemorrhage. The Detroit Public School administration honored Dr. Golightly by establishing the Golightly Career and Technical Center in 1982.

Golightly had an extensive research background in integration and what is known as "De Facto Segregation" in public schools in northern cities, such as Detroit and Milwaukee. This, along with Golightly's background in the federal government, gave him the tools to work on integration policies and race relations during his time with the public school boards.
