Accession #1883

The records of President William Rea Keast were placed in the University Archives in several shipments between 1968 and 1975 and opened for research in March of 2006.

William Rea Keast was born in Malta, Illinois on November 1, 1914, the only child of Helen Dusher Keast and Perce Keast, an instrumental music teacher. He received both his undergraduate and graduate degrees in English literature from the University of Chicago, where he taught, absent a stint in the Army during World War II, until 1951, when he moved to Cornell. There he honed his reputation as an authority on eighteenth century English literature, especially the writings of Samuel Johnson, and moved up through the administrative ranks from department chair to vice president for academic affairs. On July 1, 1965 he succeeded Clarence Hilberry as fifth president of Wayne State University.

Keast arrived in Detroit at a time of great expectations for both the city and the University. Presiding over the University during a period of tremendous ferment that saw the rise of the anti-Vietnam War and black power movements, he focused on nurturing what he viewed as a mutually beneficial relationship between the University, with its resources for solving the city's problems, and Detroit, a laboratory for University research on urban issues. Described as student-oriented and accessible, he managed to keep the campus relatively quiet in the wake of the Detroit riot and the killings at Kent State. He also worked to raise Wayne State's profile among urban universities, expanding the Medical School and the other professional schools as well as the University's graduate and research programs.

Keast resigned from the presidency in June of 1971 and after a short sojourn as chair of the Commission on Academic Tenure in Higher Education in Washington, D. C., he joined the faculty of the University of Texas at Austin, where he remained until his retirement in 1980. He died June 27, 1998.

58 storage boxes

Series I, General Files, 1965-1971, Boxes 1-51:

Correspondence, reports, minutes and publications reflecting the administration of the University and its relationship with the city of Detroit during the turbulent sixties. Of particular interest are files related to student and faculty challenges to administrative authority over the Vietnam War, student publications, racial discrimination, University governance and campus expansion. The budgetary process, especially with regard to the state government's role, campus development, the establishment of the Center for Urban Studies and special programs to increase educational opportunity for disadvantaged Detroit youth are similarly well documented. Files are arranged chronologically and then alphabetically, primarily by unit within the University and secondarily by subject. Certain files, like those concerning budgetary matters, may contain material spanning several years and are so identified in the folder heading.

Series II, Memberships, 1965-1971, Boxes 51-57:

Correspondence, reports, minutes and publications related to President Keast's service in professional and civic organizations. Files are arranged alphabetically.

Series III, Articles and Speeches, 1965-1971, Boxes 57-58:

Published articles, addresses, policy statements and research notes used in preparing speeches. Files are arranged chronologically.

Non-manuscript material:

A few photographs, audio tapes of some of his speeches, the Keast Tribute Dinner and the meetings of the Lynn Parsons tenure case investigation committee, and a film of the Keast inauguration have been placed in the Archives Audiovisual Collection.
