A Century of Service...

Although this horse-drawn Detroit street railway of the 1880's seems a long time in the past, Burton Abstract and Title Company already had been in existence for 20 years. Now in its Centennial year — Burton is serving more customers, operating more offices, insuring more properties than ever before. The first hundred years are just a good start for Burton... Michigan's best-known name in title protection!

There's no simple answer to the question. But there are two basic factors involved in making sure that tax considerations are carefully analyzed and their consequences are held to legal minimums: (1) How well you plan; (2) How well your estate is administered. Both call for expert counsel, with your attorney, and the services of an experienced, permanent executor. When you choose Detroit Bank & Trust to fill this latter role, you have the assurance that your estate will receive the personal attention of an expert whose judgment is backed by a staff of specialists in every phase of trust and estate administration. What's more, you know that this expert personal attention will be provided to your heirs. Isn't this the kind of help you need? It can be yours. Stop in soon with your attorney and talk it over. Telephone 222-3488 to arrange an appointment.

Dean's Message

I would like to salute you, who are members of the present generation of students. You have borne with remarkable patience the inadequacy of facilities to meet the increased enrollments. You have shown considerable initiative in developing new programs, such as the speakers' luncheons, the Inter-Collegiate Moot Court Competition, the Free Legal Aid Clinic, visits to the courts, and many more. This issue of the ADVOCATE bears witness to a renewed interest in activities. The success in the Regional Competition of the National Moot Court, and the devoted energy by the Moot Court Board in providing judges for the great number of first-year arguments is gratifying. Needless to say, the WAYNE LAW REVIEW continues its high standards, and reflects credit on its editors.

As we move into new quarters, I hope we also transfer the spirit which makes working with you so rewarding.

To you graduating seniors, the best wishes from all of us for your success in the practice of law.

From the Alumni Association...

As the Law School enters a period of change and growth, the Law Alumni Association has committed itself to a parallel course of development so as to better serve its members, the Law School, and the legal profession. Under the leadership of President Edward A. Blaty, the Association is now actively engaged in implementing important new programs for the Alumni, and for the Law School. As part of the current program to strengthen and expand the Association, major internal reorganization has been undertaken. The Association is for the first time making full use of the personnel and facilities of the University Alumni office. Homer Strong and Thomas Stone of that office have each personally been active in advising and assisting the Association in streamlining its organizational affairs. This has already resulted in better communication between the Association and its membership and has given the officers of the Association the tools necessary to build an effective and active group.

Another significant effort of the Association is the work now being done by the self-study committee. This committee, appointed in September, 1965 by former President Boaz Siegel, is charged with making an exhaustive study of all aspects of the Alumni Association. It is expected that the final report of this body will contain many recommendations for expansion of the Association.

Of course, the Association is very much aware of the challenges now facing the Law School. With a fine new building and increasing enrollment, the Law School is presented with an opportunity of joining the ranks of the most prominent law colleges in the country. The Law Alumni Association is firmly committed to the attainment of the school.

As in past years, the Association, in cooperation with the Law School, presented its annual Law Alumni Day on Saturday, April 23, 1966. The highlight of this year’s program was the seminar on "The Development of the Court System for Michigan."

Other important activities of the Association include direct financial support of such student activities as the Moot Court Competition, and The Wayne Advocate. Also, the Association each year sponsors a banquet in honor of the Law School faculty. On the following pages appear photographs of this year’s Faculty-Alumni dinner, which was held at the Detroit Press Club.

Graduating seniors are invited to join the Association. Although the cost is nominal, the affiliation is gratifying. By strengthening the Association, the Law School and the University are also strengthened. Interested seniors, as well as any graduate not presently a member of the Association, should get further details by writing to the Law School Alumni Association, Alumni House Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan.

Law Wives' Club - an Appreciation from the Dean

The Law Wives' Club was organized in 1959 to "prepare wives of law students for their husbands' professional future." Accordingly, they have listened to lectures which could make the role of the lawyer and the practice of law more understandable. They have helped each other in securing cooperation with their husband's law school program, and in boosting morale when the going was tough. They have also encouraged participation in social activities to alleviate the rigors of being a "law wife", such as a style show (all costumes home made) and a pizza party. Their dedication to service includes raising money for a needy family, providing a scholarship fund, and much appreciated help at the Alumni Reunion, the Honors Convocation, and other events.

All general student activities are the initial responsibility of the Student Bar Association. The Association sponsors special convocations, faculty-student social affairs, publishes the student directory, and serves as a liaison between students, faculty and administration.

The governing board is composed of elected representatives from each class and from each major student organization.

Because of its pervasive influence on student life, it is fitting that we close this program by paying tribute to those serving on this Board with an appropriate certificate.
