Volume 17
Number 2
SPRING 1973

Cunningham Drug Stores is on the threshold of a decade of growth. Although we are based in Detroit, our activities extend into six states. In addition to our present activities, we have plans to expand in a manner that will not only take us into many additional areas but give us almost unlimited potential as well.

The challenge of the 70's is here NOW at Cunningham's. We need competent professional men to help us meet that challenge. We want that one man out of every hundred who revels in competition . . . that one man who will accept any challenge.

If you are that one out of a hundred, we can offer you the opportunity for professional and personal growth and fulfillment. Cunningham's also offers you a chance to enjoy professional status, to give service to your community, and to receive the financial rewards your position merits.

Call or write Director of Corporate Recruitment, Cunningham Drug Stores, 1927 Twelfth Street, Detroit, Michigan. Or phone 313-963-7760.

Your Future...Your Professional Career

Have you considered the challenges and rewards of a professional sales career? As a Lilly representative, you will bring new developments and firsthand information on important pharmaceuticals into the physician's daily practice. To the physician, you are Lilly and considered a valued member of the health team. You will be the technical expert representing a company that is backed by the finest research facilities and a reputation for quality and progress. It is a most rewarding way to make full use of your extensive pharmaceutical training.

It's rewarding in other ways, too. As a Lilly representative, you will have an excellent salary and bonus plan plus generous insurance and retirement benefits. The Lilly policy of promotion from within gives you the opportunity for varied responsibilities and an active career. Home-office and on-the-job instruction keeps you alert and informed about the latest medical and pharmaceutical advances.

For more detailed information, write to Mr. James E. Koffenberger, Vice-President, Sales, Eli Lilly and Company, Indianapolis, Indiana 46206. He will also be glad to arrange a visit with the Lilly District Manager in your area.

THE DEAN'S COLUMN

Acting Dean Willis E. Moore

Change continues to be the predominant force operating throughout our daily activities. One that I consider of vital importance to our future is that of consumerism. The advisory committee for the 20th Annual Stephen Wilson Seminar, which is composed of outstanding leaders in Pharmacy in southeastern Michigan, also believed it to be of importance for it was the subject of the February seminar. Congressman Ben Rosenthal (D - NY) introduced four House bills in March which he believes will further protect the interests of consumers in paying the drug costs in today's health-care delivery system.

Many pharmacists in the audience at the Wilson Seminar did not like what they heard. Some, in fact, flatly refused to listen. One wrote an editorial in his fraternity newsletter which castigated the whole concept.

The report from the Dichter Institute for Motivational Research, commissioned last year by the A.Ph.A., again reported quite clearly items of fact that pharmacists do not want to hear: the pharmacist has lost contact with his patients; the pharmacist has lost his professional standing in the eyes of the public because patients cannot visualize him as a tradesman and a professional simultaneously; to regain his professional status, he must conduct himself in all matters as a professional.

Booklet Available .....

Smith Kline and French has a new booklet that cites possible alcohol interactions with drugs. "Alcohol Interactions" is a very comprehensive, concise booklet. It is now being made available to pharmacists through SK & F Laboratories' Professional Sales Representatives (or by writing SK&F, Public Information H-20; 1500 Spring Garden Street; Philadelphia, Pa. 19101).

Available without charge, "Alcohol Interactions" cites possible interactions of alcohol with a broad range of prescription and over-the-counter drug products.

The booklet is based on a lecture presented in March, by Ralph Mancini, Ph.D. SK&F Divisional Medical Associate, at a Rutgers University College of Pharmacy continuing education seminar.

Since Congressman Rosenthal's views reflect what the consumer is trying to communicate to pharmacists who won't "Listen," his remarks to today's pharmacists will be quoted directly from the Congressional Record of March 19:

Pharmacists

"Post your prices and quote prices over the phone or in person for the consumer shopping for the best buy.

Do not overlook an opportunity to sell yourself and your service. Explain clearly to customers just what professional services you offer and what they cost.

In other words, justify your charges, do not conceal them. The best way to do this may be on a sign prominently displayed near the pharmacy counter.

When a customer brings in a prescription for a high-price trademarked drug, suggest a generic substitution and call the physician for permission.

When the customer already has a generic prescription, fill it with the lowest cost product available.

In either case, pass the savings on to the customer.

Use your influence in the pharmacy profession to voluntarily remove the barriers to adequate consumer information such as restrictions on retail price advertising. You can also begin by labeling your prescriptions with the generic name of the drug and the date beyond which it should not be used."

Various local jurisdictions have upheld price-posting for prescription drugs. Legislation will be proposed in Michigan to that end. I predict that some form of price-posting legislation will be passed in Michigan because no argument so far proposed is believed by the public to be valid. For example, how many of us, and how many patients, really believe that "posting of prescription prices will lead to drug abuse?"

The long-range result of price-posting will be the ultimate factor which will save Pharmacy as a profession. It will be the means whereby pharmacists will be forced to clearly and effectively communicate to the public the distinct difference between acquisition costs and professional fee. Congressman Rosenthal's advice to the consumer states in part:

"Look for the services you want, such as convenience, credit, delivery, 24-hour service, patient profile records. If that is what you are looking for, you can expect to pay extra for it; if you want the lowest possible price, expect bare bones service—in some stores that means never even seeing the pharmacist, only a clerk."

The time of "bare bones service" in Pharmacy must and will come to an end. "Sock-it-to-'em" might be a good slogan for the Tigers, it does not belong in a health-profession.

COOPERATION FOR PROGRESS: PHARMACY AND THE CONSUMER

Paul L. Zollars

The 18th annual Stephen Wilson Seminar convened on February 20th with the theme "Cooperation For Progress: Pharmacy and the Consumer."

Acting Dean Willis E. Moore began the program by pointing out the fact that the general public in terms of pharmaceutical services views itself as a "consumer" and not as a "patient" seeking quality health services from a pharmacist.

The first speaker was Mrs. Helen E. Nelson, president of the Consumer Federation of America. She spoke on the topic "Pharmaceutical Services the Public Expects."

She defined consumerism as a social movement attempting to augment the rights of buyers in relation to sellers. She stated that the consumer wants two things from the pharmacist: (1) the benefits of modern drugs for which he is enormously grateful and (2) obtaining as much safety as possible with the use of these drugs. The public has a right to be safe and Congress has been responsive to this by enacting several laws in an effort to increase public safety over the past ten years.

Mrs. Nelson wants the pharmacist to coordinate, interpret and advise the public concerning its health care drugs. She wants the pharmacist to share his knowledge with the public. She wants an open declaration of price, the use of generic names on prescriptions, a federal drug formulary, written information to the consumer as to the use, directions and side effects of purchased drugs, clear labeling of the drugs and quantities specified on the prescription medication container. The pharmacist must work at his highest professional skill and not his lowest. He must spend his time as a drug consultant and not just a pill counter and a label typer. Mrs. Nelson wants the pharmacist to provide educational services to the public and for his pharmacy to become a health care center. In short she wants a restructuring of our pharmaceutical health care system.

The second speaker was Mr. Paul A. Pumpian, the secretary of the New Jersey Board of Pharmacy. He spoke on "Improving the Provision of Pharmaceutical Services to the Public."

Mr. Pumpian stated that today's pharmacists are not informing the public of their knowledge. They can't seem to find the time to communicate with the patient. According to Mr. Pumpian the State Board of Pharmacy of New Jersey acting in the interest of the public now requires the keeping of patient profiles. The pharmacist is required to monitor patient drugs to be able to alert the physician concerning allergies, adverse reactions, drug interactions and the like. He believes that the pharmacist has the right to add supplementary directions to his prescription labels if in his professional judgment they are needed for maximum patient benefit. He believes that pharmacy is changing and that a whole multiple of new services can and should be provided the general public by the pharmacist.

Mr. Pumpian stated that all services require time and effort and that consequently they should cost something. He believes that the public doesn't mind paying for service as long as it is aware that a service is being provided. The pharmacist should meet, greet, advise and most of all serve the public.

The third presentation of the morning was a panel responding to the two previous presentations. It consisted of Mrs. Pepper Jacques of Detroit's Model Neighborhood Comprehensive Health Program, Lou Mieczko, a consumer writer for the Detroit News, Maurice Q. Bechtel of Muskegon and Robert Ravin of Ann Arbor.

The afternoon session opened with Mr. Samuel B. Spencer, the assistant corporation counsel of the city of Boston presenting "The Consumer's Right to Know." He was concerned about governmental intrusion into the marketplace and he stated that the government cannot dictate the price of drugs. He pointed out that the demand for prescription drugs is to some degree elastic. The choice is up to the patient whether to get it filled. If it is an expensive prescription he may choose to have only half of it filled or he may take only one tablet rather than two a day in order to stretch his prescription because he can't afford to have it refilled. This of course would destroy the course of treatment planned for this patient by his physician.

Mr. Spencer believes that there is a class of people that are not on third party pay and can't afford the high cost of prescription drugs who need drug pricing information very badly in order to be able to shop wisely. He believes that the public has a right to this information.

The last speaker of the day was Mr. W. Byron Rumford of the Bureau of Consumer Protection of the Federal Trade Commission. He spoke about "The Consumer, Pharmacy and Government."

He stated that the FTC's job is to protect the consumer and that one of the ways it is doing this is by attempting to regulate advertising. It is attempting to require the substantiation of claims before allowing pharmaceutical companies to advertise their OTC products in a way that could prove misleading to the public. He believes that the public frequently makes its decision to buy drugs solely on the basis of advertising. He stated that the FTC is attempting to regulate manufacturer advertising in order to provide the public with contrasting information upon which it may base its decisions concerning the safety, efficiency and competitive price of OTC products it purchases.

In conclusion, the 20th Stephen Wilson Seminar provided a forum for both pharmacists and consumer interest groups to present their views on how they both can work together to insure continued progress in the provision of quality professional pharmaceutical services to the public.

THE "PROFESSIONAL" STUDENT

by Jan Wootton

I have spent many years at Wayne and I have taken many exams, quizzes and exercises. One thing that really disturbs me is the amount of cheating that goes on. Let me add that not everyone cheats or is dishonest, but a great majority of students do. As I see it, the students fall into three categories, those who don't have to cheat because they are smart or know the material; those who don't cheat because either they don't believe in it, or are too stupid to cheat, (and their grades reflect it); and the cheaters.

I will not blame solely the students. The instructors base the grades on exams forcing the student to strive for a high grade. Of course, how else can an instructor grade the students? The instructors also help by designing exams that are very easy to cheat on. They are also very easy to score. It is very easy to copy someone else's paper when it is short answer or one word fill in. I have seen multiple choice exams copied answer for answer. The sophistication of dishonesty is almost unbelievable. I, as well as a few confidants have seen, exams passed between two persons, crib sheets the size of this page, full scale copying, not to exclude reading each other the answers on a recent short answer essay test. If my hearing was better I could have gotten the same score these people did, in the 80's. But as the teacher and I both know, I didn't.

But this is really not the point. By the time a student reaches his or her last professional year, and I stress professional, they as mature adults are ready to be let loose on an unsuspecting populace. If they have achieved this goal through dishonest means, how can one expect them to conduct themselves in practice? Can they, in good conscience, say that did this by their own brain power and merit?

In reality, I and most of the other students have reached this point with the help of others. This is not to say I have cheated my way through. My grades testify to this. But dishonesty also involves skipping classes, copying homework problems, questions or lab reports, etc. Few students may realize that this is all information we are supposed to know. Because a friend of yours knows it, doesn't mean you don't have to.

As finals once again approach, and the biggest Final of all, the State Boards, draw near, I dread what I might see. I hope Wayne's Graduates do not take on the motto - "Where there's a will, there's a way." Let the score you get be your own.

A Purposeful vacation:

We're all looking forward to the upcoming Spring and Summer months. Perhaps you would like to become more involved in the future of the profession and get away from the city at the same time. These months ahead hold a number of conventions of professional pharmaceutical associations. Here is a brief calendar:

CONVENTION	DATES	LOCATION
NADCDS	May 10	Palm Beach, Fla.
MSPA	June 19-22	Mackinaw Island
SAPhA	July 19-22	Boston, Mass.
APhA	July 22-26	Boston, Mass.
ASHP	Concurrent

If there might be another association you are interested in, write to them, ask if there is an upcoming convention, and attend. The main goal is just this - Active Student Participation to the fullest extent within professional associations.

Have a good summer! Come back anxious in the fall to actively participate in your own regional SAPhA meeting here at Wayne - both working in it and attending it.

The following officers were installed into their respective offices, Thursday, May 3, 1973:

Jerome Paruszkiewicz - President
 Doug Cozad - Vice President
 Tony Czapliski - Treasurer
 Dana Thomas - Recording Secretary
 JoAnn Calcaterra - Corresp. Secretary APhA
 Jacki Steinberg - Corresp. Secretary MSPA
 Larry Barr - President Elect.

Editor's Note: The SAPhA has added a new feature this year. They publish a monthly College of Pharmacy Newsletter. Read it and contribute to it. Become involved.

Greetings from L K S,

The Omicron Chapter of Lambda Kappa Sigma has four new members so far this year. They are: Mary Ann Badowski, Lorie Kekic, Lucy Wilczynski, and Kathleen Zajac. The formal dinner was December 17, at the Schmidt House.

We have been able to raise enough money from the Bake Sales and Raffles to purchase gifts for all of the children at the St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Orphanage for Christmas and for Easter. We appreciate all of the support you have given us in the past and hope you will keep up the good work.

A dinner was planned and a wedding gift given to Carolyn Kalczyński at Carl's Chop House on February 11. The wedding was February 17. We also have several more members who are flashing their diamonds, namely: Susan Bonk, Mary Jane Wilson, and Joan Moretta. We sincerely wish each of them a happy and successful future.

Our Hygeia Day Program was held in the Hilberry Lounge of the University Center Building on March 7, at 7 p.m. A sales representative, Mr. William Kent, from A.H. Robins lectured and showed movies on IUD's. It was well attended by student members, the Alumni Assn. members, and also visitors. Refreshments were served. Our window committee also had a window display on the second floor opposite the Hilberry Lounge of the Women in Pharmacy.

Congratulations to those who are graduating this June. They are: Susan Bonk, Janice Wootton-Pres., Barbara Malek-V. Pres., Muriel Frazier-R. Sec., Linda Sliwinski-C. Sec., and Carol Jakubowski-Chaplin. May graduation be for each one the key to real success, and may the coming years be filled with lasting happiness and friendship.

Muriel Frazier
Recording Secretary

We, the men of the Mu Omicron Pi Chapter extend our warm greetings to all fellow colleagues in pharmacy with our wishes for continued success and professional involvement.

Our own involvement has been widespread in the past several months. From 100% membership in the SPhA-MPA to involvement in Drug Abuse, Kappa Psi has been very busy in raising over one grand for the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, participating in the campus Red Cross Blood Drive, hosting an OTC Drug Abuse Slide-tape presentation during the first annual Drug Fair, and attending the Regional Kappa Psi Convention in Cincinnati during the quarter break.

New additions to our chapter house include our recently completed library-study, dedicated in Honor of Alumni Brother Joseph Holder. We are now also graced by the donation of a baby grand piano. Last quarter we hosted a successful interfraternity party which demonstrated the spirits of friendship and cooperation with our colleagues in Phi Delta Chi.

The newly elected officers for the upcoming year are: Sonny Goodlein, Regent; Mike DePetris, Vice-Regent; Bob Coffey, Corresponding Secretary; Tony Czaplicki, Recording Secretary; Doug Cozad, Treasurer; Kit Lee, Historian; Bill McMullan, Chaplain; and Regge Sohocki, Sgt. of Arms.

Looking towards the future, the men of Kappa Psi will again be involved in the Annual Detroit General Hospital Days and the March of Dimes, renewing our Red Cross Blood Bank Account, and sponsoring showcases of public health information such as the Cancer Awareness Program and OTC Drug Counseling.

We wish to congratulate all graduating seniors and to wish them success and fulfillment in their beginning careers.

"POETRY"

Once upon an evening bleary,
I was feeling rather weary,
From a day of trudging through the workmen
There on Wayne State's Mall.
Suddenly there came a glimmer,
All in sight was growing dimmer,
I stopped and read, "Shapero Hall."

Shocked I stood there locked in awe,
When all at once there came a thaw,
A booming voice had split the night-time,
As I turned to see.
A hand was there upon my shoulder,
I turned, then feeling that much bolder,
To see the hand there grasping me.

309 was on the door,
I shivered there and said, "No more"
I'll take your courses if you promise,
That I'll surely pass."
The tall man smiled and laughed a bit,
I saw the trouble and cried to-wit,
I found myself there in a class.

Boom! the teacher's voice vibrating,
My poor hand was soon gyrating,
Trying hard to draw a structure,
How I'll never know,
The tape recorders all were busy,
My aching head was growing dizzy,
I grabbed my heart and shouted "No."

"Lab" a word I'll ne'er forget,
My cramped, cold hands are aching yet,
I think my Mettler's got a problem,
At least the prof thinks so;
I bare my back to take the lashes,
My wracked body writhes and thrashes,
Dear Lord, please make my "scale" go.

Darkness passes 'fore my eyes,
And soon before I realize,
A man is calmly sitting, reading,
As I nearly doze.
A shout, I jump, and scream an answer,
It's accounting, It's not prostate cancer,
I'm sure in trouble heaven knows.

Buzz, It's time to move along,
I think I'll write another song,
But now it's time to feed the rabbits
With my mortal soul.
I shoot them up and hope and hope,
But no effect comes of the dope,
My grade sinks in the hole.

Lecture comes my poor hand trembles,
The man up front indeed resembles,
My worst fears that now appear
To be there in his hand.
The big R grabs my mind and jerks it,
You sure that's how nature works it,
That big R sure is grand.

Acacia, Veegum, pHp,
What's this new torture waits for me,
They've finally got a way to drive me,
Clear out of my mind.
I mix and pour and curse and toil,
My blood is coming to a boil,
They watch me from behind.

On the floor and in my lap,
I spill the awful smelling sap,
Now what's that Hassel-Clyde equation,
That I was to learn.
It just won't work those crazy numbers,
The thyroid, lung and watered lime,
All my thoughts, I start to burn.

I've passed and now the time has come,
For me to learn where sugar's from,
I've never cared but now I must,
Since my grade is on the line.
Krebbs and Embden, who'd you say,
How many acids have we learned today,
Ten or was it thirty-nine.

Bleak my future now appears,
I'm finally driven unto tears.
I'll never master therapeutics,
Till the day I die,
The hemoglobin, no the kidney,
May I could sail to Sidney,
No, graduation's night.

Just one more year and I'll be free,
Of tests and books and breakage fee,
But one more year comes slinking slowly,
My fears are now concrete.
For after weeds and seeds have died,
Ten more long weeks shot in the side,
I once more take my seat.

Labels, tubes and Dark Coal Tar,
I think It's better at the bar,
Let's cue and go partake in silence
Of a glass or two.
But wait, I think my powder's crusty,
My label crooked, and rectals musty,
I sure am feeling blue.

But is it legal is now the question,
No one thinks of my suggestion,
That we all adjourn and take our problems,
There across the street.
And so I doze and still I wonder,
Are all the others still snowed under,
Don't snore, just tap your feet.

He's back I cringe beneath my place,
It's Hasselblad, I fear that face,
For kidneys, liver, lungs and heart,
The tests are off the wall.
Creatinine, I need assurance,
I think my kidneys lost endurance,
My tests scores quickly fall.

It's clam again, it's near that hour,
We're nearing that immortal flower,
The one we've all been trying to pick,
For five unending years.
Alas, we're caught for one more time,
The thyroid, lung and watered lime,
Have dimmed the silent cheers.

But were it not for Switch and Thumb,
For smallpox, Chalk, and Skins, and Tongue,
Those five long years would be much longer,
And perhaps still more.
If Legs and Wopper, and Jungle Jim,
Had not been there to raise the din,
We'd be much poorer than before.

I've often dreamt of what I'd do,
The day I broke out from that zoo,
I'd fix those Pharm D's
Fine and well.
I'd come and fix them one and all,
That evil, upside-down, gray Hall,
My story sure would tell.

But now, upon an evening dreary,
My eyes are still quite dim and bleary,
But there's been a change in my life,
As I now recall,
The fun, the games, and yes the sorrow,
Have brought me now a bright tomorrow,
A memory of which I'll borrow,
My thoughts upon Shapero Hall.

OMICRON COLLEGIATE AND GRADUATE CHAPTER

SAPHA REGION IV CONVENTION

by Anthony Czaplicki

During the weekend of October 18-21st, the WSU Chapter of the S.A.Ph.A. will host the Region IV Convention. Students from thirteen colleges of Pharmacy in the states of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio, and Wisconsin will attend this convention.

Much work has already been done. Over $2,300 has been raised to cover the costs of the convention. Planning as to the location of the meetings, food functions, and entertainment has been done. All four fraternities are helping to host the event.

Several appointments have been made by Anthony Czaplicki, Regional Coordinator, and chairman of the Convention Committee. These include:

- Doug Cozad – Regional Treasurer
- JoAnn Calcaterra – Food Functions Chairperson
- Larry Barr – Program Chairman
- Jerome Paruszkiewicz – Social Chairman

More appointments will be made as the posts warrant.

Most of the meetings will be held at the College of Pharmacy or at Howard Johnson's on West Grand Blvd. Some of the topics will include an intraprofessional workshop, a workshop on clerkship, and a workshop on chapter services. Other workshops will include current topics in pharmacy.

The social aspect of the convention has not been forgotten, as there will be a welcoming dance on Thursday, October 18th at the Howard Johnson. A dinner-dance will be held on Friday at the Cleary Auditorium, this will be our big banquet and gives many out-of-staters their first trip to CANADA. Saturday night will include a pool party at the Howard Johnson's.

This will be the first convention at Wayne since 1966 and it probably will not return here too soon. Don't miss your opportunity to exchange ideas with students from other colleges of Pharmacy, to get an education classes won't give, and to just have a good time.

Hope to see you there!!!

CONGRATULATIONS!

This year's graduating class is honored to have among its graduates two distinguished men. These students, Ed Pitz (pictured above) and Dennis Szymanski have been named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. They have been selected on the basis of scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, service to the University and future potential.

Congratulations to both of you.

They'll be looking to you for the answers.

Your role will be an important one. You'll be their living link with the fast-paced, ever-growing, always-new world of pharmaceuticals.

You'll be their man with the answers, an Upjohn representative. Physicians, pharmacists, hospital administrators... they will all know your company and its products. And respect them.

They'll listen to you. They'll know that when you speak, you speak with authority based on in-depth education in your field.

It's a big job. With big rewards to match right from the start.

If you'd like to know more about opportunities in pharmaceutical marketing at Upjohn, please write Director, Domestic Pharmaceutical Sales, The Upjohn Company, Kalamazoo, Michigan 49001.

JERKSHIP

(Sidewalk of NY)

*For it was Jerkship, Clerkship that made me feel so sad,
I drove to Ypsalanti, 90 kilos from my pad.
Fred & Paul & Ernie and good old Dr. Bob,
They tried so hard to learn me and I still turned out a slob.*

*For it was nurdship, clerkship that made my stomach growl,
They filled me with such garbage that it clogged my lower bowel.
With OTC's and IV's and lots of seminars too,
I made up methadone so much that my hands were turning blue.*

*For it was hardship in the clerkship, that made it hard to stand,
I'd be more clinically minded playing with a rubber band.
The stress to meet the patient; get him as he comes in the door,
Consul, talk and explain to him even though he thinks you're a bore.*

*For it was bullshit in the clerkship riding to the sites,
I left my house at daybreak and arrives in ten short nights.
Had to cross the border, the guards pulled in our cars,
We crossed with drugs and needles, now we're serving behind bars.*

*For It's Jerkship, clerkship that almost at an end,
I've just got one more trip left, its a drug store in South Bend.
Thanks Paul, Fred and Ernie and good old Dr. Bob,
I've been with you three quarters and I've still turned out a slob.*

How well do you know the seniors? Can you identify these people? Stretch; Squeaks; Leggs; Busha; Dumptruck; Crash; Smallpox; Whopper; Camel; Thumbs and Pheochromocytoma.

Here's a future that's challenging, educational, and professional

After graduation, putting your education to best use requires the right challenge.
 One to consider is a career as a Lilly representative. The salary and benefits are excellent. You make your own way and bring pharmaceutical information to physicians, pharmacists, and other members of the health care team. Best of all, your future has plenty of room for growth. Take the first step; mail the form to:
 Mr. C. E. Hixon, Director
 Marketing Personnel
 Eli Lilly and Company

At REVCO, it's the pharmacist up front that counts

The major and basic difference between Revco's 289 stores and ordinary drug stores is the Company's marked emphasis on its prescription business. Revco pharmacists now fill prescriptions at the rate of nearly 13 million a year.

Obviously, the operation of high-volume prescription stores such as Revco's and the simultaneous maintenance of high professional standards requires the services of registered pharmacists of high proficiency and character.

That's why when we say, "at Revco, it's the pharmacist up front that counts", we mean it! Of course, if in addition to working in a highly professional environment, you're interested in the more mundane matters such as . . .

- Revco's training program for interns is the most outstanding in the profession
- Revco provides excellent salaries and fringe benefits
- Revco offers a stock participation retirement plan that provides security and financial growth
- Revco's rapid growth and continuous expansion program offers many opportunities for advancement to management positions

. . . Then, you should definitely explore your future with Revco. If you are interested in a position in Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Arizona, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Indiana or Alabama, then write:
