NEWMAN CLUB

HE Newman Club, Wayne's organization for Catholic students, has made rapid progress during the last two semesters. A series of religious lectures by Father Francis Walsh of Sts. Peter and Paul Cathedral was one of the club's main projects. As spiritual adviser of the group, Father Walsh talked on subjects suggested by the members. Other spiritual activities of the Newman Club during the past year consisted in the annual women's retreat held at the Sacred Heart Convent, and a Communion Sunday followed by a breakfast.

The social program included a series of monthly parties held at the Mackenzie Union, a skating and tobogganing party at Lake Orion, and a roller-skating party. A semi-formal dinner at which newly-elected officers of the club were installed is a precedent which this year's group has inaugurated.

Those who held office during the past year are Camillo D'Amico, president; Kathryn Allen, vice-president; Betty Harrington, secretary; and Walter McDonnell, treasurer. Cabinet members of the organization are Richard Kulka, College of Education; Merle Sullivan, College of Engineering; Charles Driscoll and Ardith Wilson, College of Liberal Arts; Marjorie Kulling, social chairman; Elizabeth Smith, publicity chairman; and Agnes Mozolewski, membership.

Those who have served the club as advisers are Miss Mary Lennon, Miss M. Theresa Peters, Miss Mildred Connelly, and Mr. Milo S. Ryan.

HE Student Council started the fall term by welcoming the incoming freshmen with a Freshman Day's program. A few weeks later the frosh were introduced to the Sophs at the annual Class Games at Belle Isle. The Council climaxed the welcoming process with the Frosh Frolic, a masquerade in honor of the freshmen.

A series of matinee dances, planned to make students better acquainted, were held at school and in outside ballrooms.

The annual Dad's Night was inaugurated by the Student Council, and turned out to be so successful that its continuance in the future is assured.

HE Women's Athletic Association, in cooperation with the Department of Health Education, aims to promote intramural athletics among the women of the University. The program of organization is three-fold, business, athletic, and social. The business is conducted by the Council of the Association, composed of the officers, heads of sports, and class representatives. The athletic program includes interclass and intergroup tournaments and provides opportunity for women to participate in twenty-one different sports. A varied social program includes an annual Fall Mixer, and semi-annual banquet, and each semester an All-University Play Day is held in the women's gymnasium.

HE Wayne University Chapter of the national Young Women's Christion Association upholds the liberal policies and purposes of the national organization, promoting full and creative life for all the peoples of the world. In order to help carry out the fundamental aims of the Y.W.C.A., the Wayne Chapter invites all University women to join in its activities and to participate in its functions. The year's activities have aimed at the promotion of more friendly student-faculty relationship, and a better understanding between international racial groups in the student body. The formation and expansion of the World Friendship Club under the direction of the Y.W.C.A. has been a considerable step toward acquainting Wayne students with the cultural backgrounds of their fellow students. The International Festival sponsored by the Y.W.C.A. and the Art Education Club, with the aid and cooperation of other campus organizations, was for the purpose of broadening interest in races and nationalities. A student group of the Y.W.C.A. sponsored a Koffee Klatch for the new faculty members. The Y.W.C.A. occupied an apartment in the Women's Building during the past year, furnished mainly through the cooperative efforts and contributions from members of the faculty. The rooms are open during the day to all women of the University. A series of Friendly Teas were held to welcome new University women and acquaint them with the Y.W.C.A. and its policies. The Y.W.C.A. Spring Formal is an annual all-university event, and was held this year at Dearborn Inn.

RIARS is the junior men's honor society. Each year the Friars selected the previous year elect new juniors to membership. The traditional number was seven until two years ago when it was changed to five.

Basis for selection is participation in the activities of the University, a certain measure of congeniality, and good scholarship.

This year the Friars have not been satisfied to sit in their glory, but have inaugurated a new deal for the freshmen. Under their supervision a different type of orientation classes was planned and given. Interesting faculty and student speakers were scheduled to address the different groups on subjects that interested them (both the speakers and the audience).

It was a hard job but all of the men cooperated and made the project a marked success.

HE Mackenzie Honor Society, organized in 1925, consists of senior men elected to membership in view of their outstanding contributions to the University during their four years of undergraduate work. The purpose of the organization is to honor those seniors who have achieved notable success in extracurricular activities. Although scholarship is not the aim of the group, candidates must have attained a satisfactory standing in the classroom.

Members are chosen annually toward the close of the spring semester by a committee consisting of the members chosen from the preceding senior class, faculty members appointed by the Dean of Students, the president of the Society, and one other member selected by the president.

LPHA Theta Sigma donated the large Christmas tree that decorated the main corridor at Christmas time. During the holidays a Christmas party was held at the home of Eleanor Schwerak. Also during the holidays was the Christmas Dance. Other social gatherings sponsored were a spring formal dinner-dance, and a Mother and Daughter Tea held at the Institute. At the annual scholarship tea held at the Institute a pin was presented to the senior woman having the highest honor point average.

TEMBERS of the Sphinx fraternity contributed materially to the formation of staunch traditions at the University by donating a cup to the most valuable man on the football team. This was won by Jim Demaree. Sphinx also inaugurated the "Varsity Hop," a dance in honor of the football team. It is the intention of the Sphinx men that both of these will be carried on in the future.

PRO AND CON

GERALD P. NYE-October 2

Speaking with an eloquent directness, Senator Nye disclosed the findings of the Congressional Munitions Investigations Committee to a startled audience. Wayne students were the first group to hear the Senator on this subject and so much interest was evolved that the auditorium was packed. Some of the revelations made by the Senator were so surprising that his hearers gasped in unison. He pictured for the assembly the actions of munition makers in fostering wars, in selling munitions to belligerent nations, and even proved that they bribed various officials of foreign armies. War was decried as being one of the "greatest rackets ever conceived." Profit was proven to be one of the motivating forces in the creation of international combat, "take the profit out of war and you have destroyed one of the greatest and most direct causes of international conflict."

FOOTBALL RALLY—November 17

Everyone having recovered from the shock of having a winning football team crowded into the auditorium to clap, laugh, listen and yell at a football rally. The Gas House Gang brought out a gorilla who sat on the stage looking very woolly and discouraged. The gorilla, however, was the only thing that looked down in the mouth (having swallowed some of his costume). The coaches, the team, the faculty, the alumni, and even the students had a heck of a good time. In fact the whole thing was something to cheer about.

HARRY NEWTON CLARKE—December 6

When a student sits up and takes notice it means something. But when three-fourths of a student audience takes notes on a lecture (voluntarily) it means that a miracle has taken place.

The "Miracle Man" in this case was Harry Newton Clarke, personnel and industrial counsellor who forcefully outlined a successful method of selecting a vocation.

Mr. Clarke offered to help twenty-five students make a personal analysis of themselves in order that they may find their right vocations.

FATHER CHARLES COUGHLIN-December 11

Bitterly denouncing the capitalists and the abuses their system has wrought, Father Charles E. Coughlin challenged twelve hundred students to take action against these if they wished for their own and future generations depression-less existence.

"Are you going to have the courage to cast from your shoulders capitalistic injustice," he demanded, "or, like a bunch of sissies and nitwits, are you going to sit back and suffer?"

"The Radio Priest" declared that even in times like these liberty, equality, and justice exist and religion is trying to help people find them.

An open forum during which Father Coughlin answered questions submitted by students ended the convocation.

LEO M. FRANKLIN-January 10

"Religion must feel the impress of changing time," said Dr. Leo M. Franklin, speaking on the subject, "What The Modern Jew Believes." He asserted that Jewish philosophy is inherently adaptable to change and that the Jewish faith had never been static because of historical conditions.

This lecture was the last of a series on the general subject of "Religion in a Changing World," presented by the Student Christian Association of the University.

ALBERT COBO-January 17

Wayne students were able to actually see and hear a real wizard of finance in the person of Alfred E. Cobo, debuty treasurer of Detroit whose talk on city finances left the audience with the prospects of a brighter future ahead.

OSSIP GABRILOWITSCH—February 18

In special convocation on this evening, as many as possible of the students of Wayne University assembled in Orchestra Hall to hear and see Ossip Gabrilowitsch, director of the Detroit Symphony, receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Music. Reverend Charles Haven Meyers, chaplain for the evening, opened the formal exercises with a prayer. After a few selections by the Detroit Symphony, Reverend Chester B. Emerson gave an address in which he discussed the aims of education. A second talk by John Erskine, the Columbia "titan of literature" was brilliantly delivered to an appreciative and listening audience. He moaned the passing of classic learning and the excruciating lack of elegance shown by the young idea in going merrily to the dogs. Dr. Spain read the degree citation, "This University is happy to acknowledge and honor the beneficient influence of a gifted artist who, by interpreting the music of the world to us, has helped to make a city of crafts also a home of the arts." Everyone clapped.

SCROLLERS CLUB—February 26

Wayne students expressed in no uncertain terms their approval of the musical convocation sponsored by the Scrollers, a negro organization on the campus.

So well received were Gloster Current's Nightingales and the vocalists who appeared with them that the appeal (if any) of Dr. Kemmer's history lecture faded to almost zero. The crowd disregarded the bell completely and clamored for more. They got it, at the expense of twenty minutes of Dr. Kemmer's history lecture.

HENRY N. MacCRACKEN-March 11

Even away from his own college, which incidentally is Vassar, Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken has the ability to lure students into auditoriums where he speaks.

The college president's talk on education here was not his first. He has given a similar lecture here before and this was in the nature of a return engagement.

Urging that college students assume economic responsibility, Dr. MacCracken advocated the establishment of a state and national organization to finance them. He advised students to organize for the purpose of self government and to assert themselves as a class.

CYRIL A. ALINGTON-March 12

Past headmaster of Eton and present Dean of Durham Cathedral, Dr. Cyril A. Alington discussed the English system of higher education as contrasted with the American. His basic thesis was stated thusly: "Education today cannot be expected to make any great advance until the people are divided into two classes, literary and scientific, and receive their instruction according to their desires." Dr. Alington favored the specialization of knowledge, and freedom of the student to choose whatever course he desired.

GERHARDT SEGER-March 28

Tales of horrible treatment endured by persons at the hands of men who were mentally deranged, and who were chosen because they possessed qualities of cruelty were recalled by Herr Gerhardt Seger, a former member of the Reichstag.

CHOICES PEOPLES'

RED BENS, Adonis of the Engineering college throws the bull and the women for a loss. He is captain-elect of the football squad for the 1935 season and if he leads the team on in the same fashion that he does the femmes-victory!

Harvey Berkey is the man who is responsible for the aura of success which you see about the heads of the members of the senior class. He goaded, cajoled, in fact if you name it he did it, to the members of the blustering but scared little bunch of prospective alumni.

Jim Demaree, excellent footballer and captain of this year's successful team is, we are sorry to relate, a married man. Among the other prizes which Jim has won lately was the cup presented to him on the night of the Varsity Hop for being the most valuable player on the football squad.

Robert Jones, a strong silent engineer, was the possessor of two of the most important offices on the campus, the presidency of the University Student Council and of the Interfraternity Council. As far as we have been able to discover Bobby is the first to ever hold those two offices simultaneously but leave it to the Jones boys.

Carl Phillips—he plays varsity football, he wrestles (we cannot vouchsafe to say whether or not he does this outside of school also), he is a fraternity man, and last but by no means least, he is president of a class—and the Junior class at that.

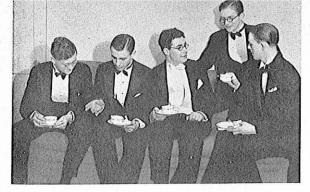

Virginia Baker, is first in the list of women here not only because we are doing this alphabetically. She is president of her sorority, has been on so many committees that we are "Baker conscious," and are among others who are in that state.

Jean Duncan, well she's Jean Duncan, which should be enough for anybody who hasn't been hiding under a bush for the last four years. "Dunc" has been president of the A.W.S., member of the Student Council for two years, member of the Intersorority Council, in fact if this was night the list of her activities would go far into it.

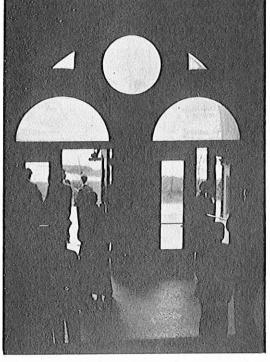

Dorothy Spies—if this were a high school annual we'd simply say, "Little, but oh, my!" But this isn't and she isn't a high school student (don't let her size fool you). She's a member of the Sophomore cabinet and the only gal elected to this thing who doesn't belong to a sorority—which ought to prove something.

Adelaide Thayer is known as the "Sultan's Favorite." No one knows why, because she isn't at all the harem-scarem sort. However, she is pres of the Junior Council, a sorority light, and a member of two out of every three committees.

Monica White is one of the trio of White sisters in school. She's a member of the Senior Board, a sorority, wrote "Dramatis Personae" for the Collegian, and was a member of numerous committees and stuff around here.

"The stags at eve had sat their fill Where danced the janes to music's trill"

HIS isn't exactly the way this poem goes but it could be verse and it does express in its own little way the gravity of a situation which acted as a deterrent to the enjoyment of Wayne's social activities to many people.

Dancing and dances play a large part in the University's after-school program and if you miss all of the dances you miss all of the dances. Of course, people who can't dance don't usually come.

It is becoming a custom to help them by organizing dancing lessons. Accordingly, every year a special committee is formed to hire a capable instructor and make arrangements for a series of instruction periods.

One, two . . . button your shoe . . . three, four . . . pay at the door . . . such phrases and the sibilant slush, slish of pattering patties crept out of the women's gym twelve times this year. They were caused each time by about one hundred students who were only too glad to waltz and foxtrot instead of studying. However they were caught unaware (not in unaware) by Mr. Arthur E. Woods who surprised them when he made them dance, and dance well to boot, as well as to music.

The arrangement provided for free admission for those girls who were prepared to give their best for the sake of Wayne's terpsichore—since the enterprise was supported by the men subjects.

This year those responsible for the series were directed by Harvey Berkey. He, together with Virginia Baker, Lee Hastings, Phyllis Kull, John Mohaupt, Lillian Schwerak, Adelaide Thayer, and June Wasserfallen hired the teacher, collected the money, hung posters, worried, and beamed.

As a sort of climax (as explained by Harvey) the tyrotechnics indulged in some pyrotechnics at a supreme grand finale open to one and all. Part of the program consisted of a dancing contest. The first prizes went to a couple of ringers, Don Hubbard and Vera Brauer. The judge, Mrs. Woods, evidently thought them just a little trickier than James Schmidt and Alice Jarvis, the couple who won second prize. For some reason or other, the rest of the entertainment was made up of selections from amateur performers on children's radio skits.

International Fall Festival

One of the most eagerly awaited events of the fall season came and fully justified the anticipation it had aroused. The annual International Festival, consisting of a program in the gym, a series of exhibitions and booths, and a dance, took over the first and second floors and attracted most of the student body.

Excited, laughing students in foreign dress marched through the banner-draped halls to lead a capacity crowd to the women's gym where the paraders gave novel and refreshing entertainment. A number of tableaux were the first presentations. They included a Chinese wedding scene, and folk songs from Norway, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Old France, Russia, and Bohemia. A series of folk dances, emblematic of Russia, Hungary, and Scotland were neatly tripped to appropriate music. The Scots, together with the rest of the audience, were well pleased with the daintiness and the finesse of the two little girls and the enormous piper representing them. This phase of the entertainment was brought to a conclusion with some old American dances: the badger gavotte, quadrille, polka, rye waltz, and of course, a barn dance.

Gordon Ewing impressively fondled his moustache and shooed out the people to form a steady flow through the rooms which were decorated and furnished in native styles of many different nations.

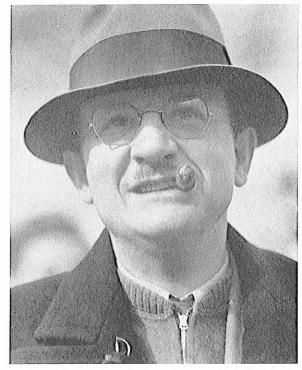

A Spanish exhibit boasted a fortune teller who did not have the silver across the palm complex, . . . a puppet show by the Art Guild elicited oohs, aahs, and gurgles. . . . Chinese tea and cakes were dished up to the strains of Chinese music and Chinese incense in the —oh yes, the Chinese room. . . . . the Women's Athletic Association went Colonial and the Russians went Russian—there was Russian music, dances, art, and food. . . . the Home Ec Club arranged some sample four-course dinners that made everyone rush home to eat.

ing that as this is rolling out of the typewriter a broiling sun exclaims "Well done." Pardon if a note of pardonable pride is introduced at this point. The University Student Publications are the proud possessors of a new Publications Building. Not the least attractive part about the place is its location. It is beautifully situated. Peering out of the back windows, after removing accumulated grime, one sees an alley. Peeking out the front windows, one sees the back of the Women's League. Yes, the "Pub" is on the rear of the same lot. Whenever it is a warm day, our "girls" like to sit on the back steps, looking devastatingly worldly as they smoke the devil weed, and address disquieting remarks > to the gently perspiring staffs.

Despite unrestrainable sighs, the staffs, of course, keep slinging their slush.

September

18 Smiles, frowns, and sighs crown an atmosphere already packed with just gobs (gobs as in cute and not as in navy) of tan as Wayne returns to reluctantly confer with the Treasurer's minions and sign away their existence to Registrar Baldwin for another siege.

18-19-20 The entering freshman women are eyed and teased by the upperclassmen and are eyed and teaed by the upperclasswomen. For three days the girls swish down buckets of tea and keep it down with myriad cookies. The official teaers are the A.W.S., the Campus Sisters, and the Y.W.C.A.

24 Bob Jones gets presidential with the University Stewed Council.

October

2-3-4 One of the most involved and mystic processes at school gets under way when the Theatre holds their tryouts. As usual, "Chief" Dunham dominates the scene with his foliage.

4 The freshman women get very much mixed up at a mixer stirred by the W.A.A. Lucy Dale gave out the interviews and ran the show.

7 "Doc" Spain buys some cough drops, says "ah," and then proceeds to officially open this year's series of University radio hours.

10 The Student Council held a meeting and surprised everyone, including themselves, by laying plans for a matinee dance. Since, for a change, these plans weren't laid on the table, goes by October 10—comes out a matinee dance.

Bill Emke was the person delegated to worry about it. The struggle took place at the Maccabee's bldg.

8 Professor Russell, clad in a gorgeous pink parasol (and other vestments from a foreign clime) gave a lecture on "Our Chinese Policy." Previous to his low-down on the subject, most of his listeners, as well as the rest of the audience had thought it merely another international insurance project.

Goodness—another Mixer. This time the A.W.S. led by Jessie Giblin set the pace. The frosh women were impressed.

About this time, open season is declared on new prospects for fraternities and sororities. There is an abundance of hearty handshaking and backslapping. As a big shot walks down the hall every man in sight who belongs to the fraternity drags some victim out to look at him. "Oh yes, he's one of our boys."

- 15 Rushing goes into its last lap with all loins girded.
- 17 The College of Education, led, for the nonce, by ElVera Dahlquist, mounts up to the top of Webster Hall and proceeds to throw a swell social to which the whole school is invited.
- 22 The Council exudes another dance and is lost in the crush.

November

6 The Frosh are led over to Belle Isle to meet the Sophs face to face (and a lot of other ways). This time the swaddlings put the "duck" in introduction when they eased the Sophs through a canal which, according to all reports, was not steam-heated. The first-years clinched the contest when they (aided by an ungreased pole) got the cap off of the top of the timber. The second-year bullies got the bird from the crowd.

8-9 Some of our better known tonsils are taken for an airing at the oratory tryouts for men and women. Boy, what a bunch of soft soapers our speech people are. All of the well-known brands of gargles were on hand, rather, on the breath . . . oh well, it is certain that they were not on the house. Cortright and Youngjohn (two peaches) look glum, that means another great season.

they didn't all get weighed, they very cleverly held what they called a World Acquaint-ance Tour. Helen Tucker, an alumna, was general chairman of the trip. It consisted of talks from women who were well acquainted with the problems of different countries. They spoke on familiar subjects. At any rate, the papers gave it a lot of space.

- 17 The faculty clean the spots off their ties, powder their noses (figure it out) and step out at the Second Annual Faculty Dinner. There was no throwing of rolls or olives (we cannot speak for the bull).
- 21 Just to make this complete, another matinee dance was held; or, rather, some girls were held at a matinee dance. The excuse was Jack Rosevear's music.

The first of another tradition was staged at the Harmonic Club when the Kappa Guys got together with the athletic department and decided to do something to celebrate Wayne's rapid rise in athletics. The Football Bust went over big. In spite of (or because of) Dean Darnell's blushes, the boys had a very high time.

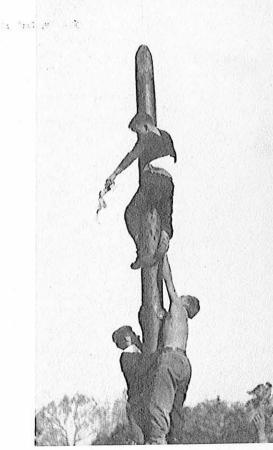

The Union holds an open house and the results are so gratifying that Manager Fitzgerald's jaw aches from the large smile he couldn't help.

6 An edict handed down from the Registrar's office requests everyone to call for any possible mid-semester marks on poor work they might have. The school promptly plunges into deep mourning.

- 11 The entire student body, the faculty, and the administration hold their collective breaths, like fun, while The Griffin popularity poll takes place. As soon as the teachers find out that the Communists have not gained control of the election they go back to sleep. The rest of the school acts very much as though nothing had happened.
- 11 Professor Levin fills up the rest of the front page of the Collegian by declaring that current United States policies are nationalistic. As yet no reply has been received from Washington.
- 18 Dean Selden hits his cue right on the nose and demonstrates what a regular fellow he is by wresting the billiards championship away from the rest of the faculty. He is an angler in every sense of the word, except that he didn't fish for this compliment.

Ruth Kimball is to be the big shot. Ruth Esther Morgans is going to turn into a secretary and Eleanor Schwerak is to be metamorphosed into a lovely cash register. (The vote for presidency resulted in a tie between Ruthie Kimball and Adelaide Thayer, the deciding ballot is to be held tomorrow, but to save space—oh well, we don't really have to save space. . . . well, because we are lazy, we will assume that today is tomorrow).

11 A surprising number of students turned out for the anti-war convo. It was surprising to everyone that the affair turned out to be an instructive and sincere effort. Anteo Tarini and Jean Wylie were the undergraduate speakers.
