STUDENT ACTIVITIES

SINCE the Griffin is primarily a record of student activities for the past year, it may not be out of place at this point to inquire into their real significance in college life.

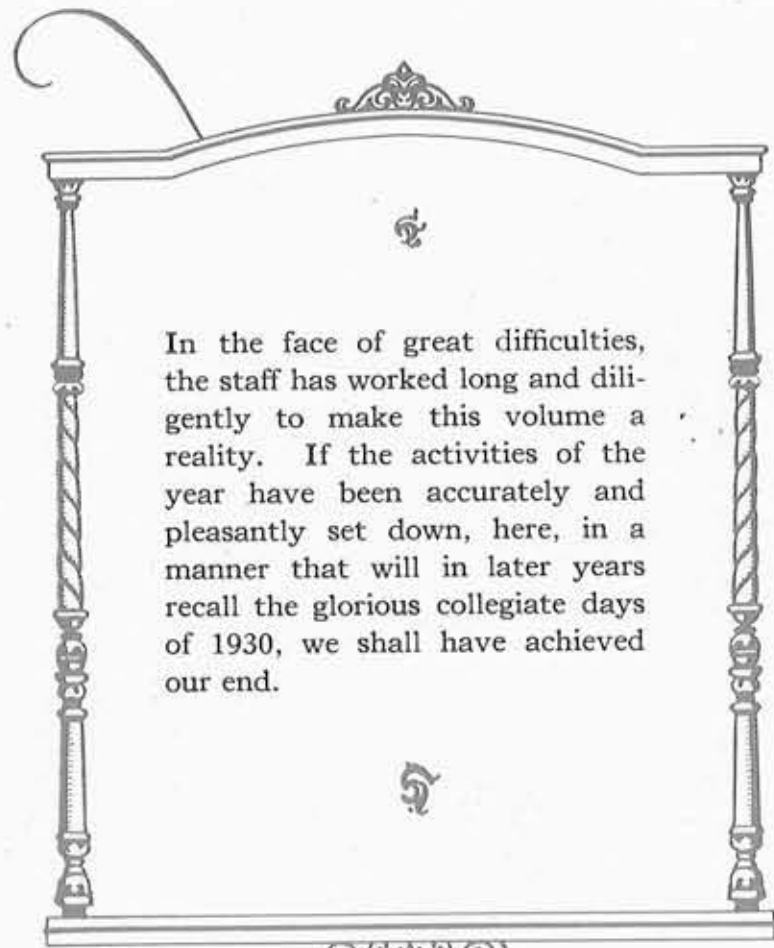

It has been suggested that students become interested in athletics, forensics, dramatics, and student politics, because, in common with other humans, they like the applause of their fellows. Another reason sometimes given is the other common human tendency to follow the crowd. A writer in one of our leading magazines said recently that college students "know that distinctions attained outside of the classroom—pave the way to success in the business and professional world."

As one who believes that the importance now given to student activities is justified, the writer would like to present what he considers some of the other benefits to be derived from a sane participation in such activities.

Participation in student activities allows a greater measure of self expression than the formalism of the classroom permits. Opportunity for contacts with fellow students is also greater. Successful management or participation in some college function leads one naturally to other undertakings besides contributing to the upbuilding of confidence in self.

The aspects of student activity just enumerated tend to make college more nearly a preparation for life and to render the individual student more capable of playing the part which will fall to his lot after graduation.

In the face of great difficulties, the staff has worked long and diligently to make this volume a reality. If the activities of the year have been accurately and pleasantly set down, here, in a manner that will in later years recall the glorious collegiate days of 1930, we shall have achieved our end.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

FOUR years ago, one thousand sixty-seven students entered college as the Class of 1930. Assisting the officers in guiding class affairs was the Freshman Cabinet, an organization which functioned ably in presenting a unique Frosh Flurry, the name being an innovation of the class.

Undaunted by precedent at the Class Games, the Frosh, though outnumbered, succeeded in sending Bill Schulz up the greased pole for the first time in history to capture the coveted flag. The following year, as Sophs, the men successfully guarded the flag and also carried off honors in the Push Ball contest.

The Soph Prom, held at the Book-Cadillac Hotel, was the big social event of the class during the second year. This success led them to carry out elaborate plans for their J-Hop, which was under the chairmanship of Landes Bell.

Three one-act plays were presented by the Junior girls under the able direction of Professor Preston A. Scott in honor of the class of 1929. The past year has found the Class of 1930, as Seniors, climaxing a successful career. As a class, they have undertaken the responsibility of editing the Griffin.

The first social event of the year was an informal Christmas party which was followed by the stately Senior Ball under the direction of Carl Stotz. The last weeks were occupied by several events including a farewell breakfast for the women, a faculty reception in honor of the Seniors, and a Skip Day, held in utmost secrecy, since neither the faculty nor the rest of the student body knew when nor where it would take place.

"Swing-out," at which the Seniors appeared for the first time in their caps and gowns, marked the last milestone in their college careers. From then until commencement the Seniors wore their gowns as evidence of their seniority.

The swing-out ceremony was one of beauty and dignity. Held on Tuesday, May 20, at the convocation hour, it was marked by an address by Dr. Raymond C. Miller who talked on "Passing of America." The Seniors, led by the president and vice-president of the Junior class, filed into the auditorium in two simultaneously moving lines before the gaze of the rest of the students and the Seniors' guests.

The class memorial was presented to the college by the class president, George Berkaw, and accepted by Dean Wilford L. Coffey in a short address.

During the past two years, the activity of the class has been under the capable leadership of the following officers: George Berkaw, president; Helen Baldwin, vice-president; Elizabeth Busse, secretary; and Elmer Pollakowski, treasurer.

This year's Student Council representatives were John Batty, Carl Stotz, Carl Sprunk, Genevieve Philbrick, and Edwin McKay.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

AS their representatives the Junior Class selected the following officers: Victor Spathelf, president; Helen Tackabury, vice-president; Margaret Darnell, secretary; Fred Cork, treasurer; Edwin Dittmer, Lillian Hitchman, and George Backhoff, Student Council representatives.

The most important event on the social calendar was the J-Hop given by the class of '31 in the ballroom of the General Motors Building. The dance was handled by Helen Tackabury as chairman.

Departing from precedent, the Junior women, in place of the usual dramatic offering, honored the Senior women at a bridge tea.

The Junior Class has reluctantly brought its third year to a successful close, and is looking forward to an even more successful Senior year.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

UNDER the presidency of Wallace Bohn, assisted by Alice Gullen, vice-president; Florence Nelles, secretary; Jerome Rothenberg, treasurer; and Carl Blomfield, Student Council representative, the Sophomore Class has had a brilliant year.

After successfully defending their honor at the Class Games by winning two of the three events, the Sophomore men made a fine showing in track, basketball, and football. Not only in athletics, but also in the forensic field was success found. The Soph debating team consisting of Bernice Brennan, Meyer Miller, and Charles Ohno succeeded in winning the inter-class championship.

The Soph Prom was the big social event of the class under the chairmanship of Warren Scheibner. Two hundred couples enjoyed themselves in the large ballroom of the General Motors Building. In all, the Sophomore Class can look back upon its second year with much pleasure and no regrets.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

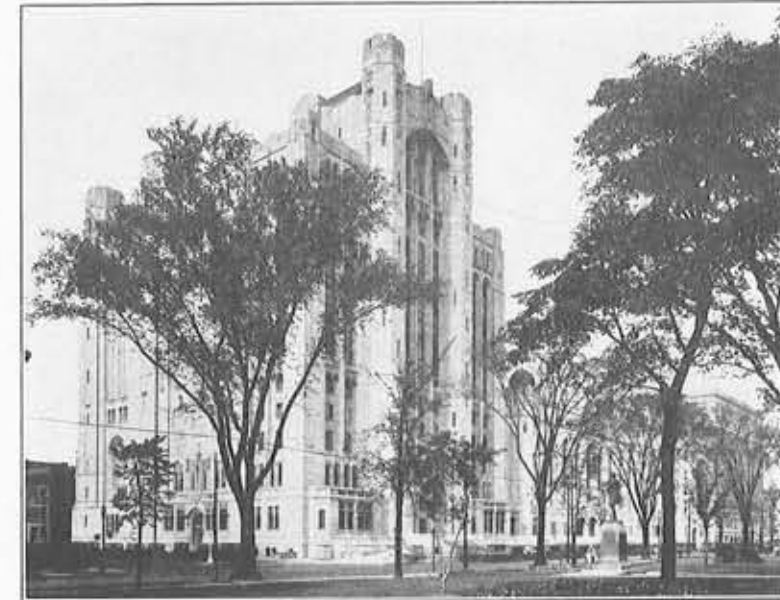

TO administer class affairs, the Freshman Class chose the following officers: John Peckham, president; Alice Baldwin, vice-president; Jean Hughes, secretary; and George Seros, treasurer. Under the leadership of Alice Baldwin, the Freshman Commission was organized to aid the activities of the A. W. S. Serving on this commission were: Mary Barrett, Virginia Charley, Betty Duncan, Dora Hamilton, Audrey Herban, Helen Hilborn, Jean Hughes, Ann Johnson, Dorothy Karrick, Jean Kreg, Elizabeth Mittelstaedt, Mildred Moore, Bernadine Plotzke, Virginia Roberts, Jeanette Secker, Louise Soloman, Carmen Wheeler, and June Urquhart.

The Class Games were hard-fought, but the Frosh succeeded in winning only one event from their more experienced adversaries. Encouragement from the Freshman Commission was liberally administered in the form of hot coffee and fried cakes. The Freshmen appeared in the traditional gray pots while the Frosh women introduced new berets of green felt with a gold "D."

The selling of Christmas cards at the A. W. S. Christmas bazaar by the Freshman Commission was in charge of Elizabeth Duncan.

To wind up the social season of the year, the Frosh Flurry was held on May ninth at the Masonic Temple's Crystal Ballroom under the direction of William Parfitt.

THE GRIFFIN

VERCOMING a heavy handicap imposed upon it by a depleted budget and delay in organization, the Griffin has again made its appearance. The original editor and business manager, appointed early in the fall, found it impossible to publish the book and resigned with the idea of abandoning this year's issue. The senior class undertook the responsibility of issuing a 1930 "annual," however, by appointing Carl Stotz, editor of the 1929 Griffin, as editor-in-chief, George Berkaw, senior class president, as business manager, and Orin-Jane Nielsen, news editor of the Collegian, as managing editor. An intensive sales campaign was carried on and the editorial work completed in time for the issuing of the book in June.

THE COLLEGIAN

LN order to give readers more timely news, The Collegian, until this year a weekly publication, began, on December 16, publishing twice weekly under the editorship of Paul G. Lutzeier.

Minor improvements consisted of the organization of a service and research branch of the business department, publication of special editions for the College theatre and other organizations, and changing the type face from eight point Old Style to the modern and more readable seven point Ionic.

Much of the success of the paper on the campus has been due to Managing Editor Albert L. Abbot's technical knowledge in the field of printing and news-writing; and to the business leadership of Al S. Koscielny and J. Wesley Lindow.

During the last two months of the year, Robert Birenbaum held the position of managing editor.

THE "D" BOOK 1930-'31

THE 1930-'31 "D" book will boast many new features that will enable it to maintain its popularity with the students when it appears next fall. Of these features a rearranged and more systematic presentation of material, many new illustrations, finer paper, and the college seal in gold leaf on the front cover will be the foremost. As usual, the book will include information about all college functions and organizations and will be a source of reference concerning scholarships, memorials, college history, grading systems, departments, diary, and college songs and yells.

The publication of the volume was undertaken by the Student Council for the first time, the Student Club having been responsible in the past. The editor of this year's book, Stuart Lottier, was assisted by the following staff:

Business Manager, Warren Cone; Associate Editors, Richard Blixberg, Arthur Gloster, Kathryn Bowman, Ben Linsky; Faculty Advisor, Alex Brede.

STUDENT COUNCIL

WITH the aim of furthering interest and participation in activities of the college, the Student Council has pursued and expanded its program throughout the year. Outstanding events sponsored by the Council include the Frosh Frolic, the fall masquerade; a Frosh Day at the beginning of each semester to orient the incoming students; a football banquet for members of the teams; Theater Night held within the college; the Class Games in the fall and Field Day in the spring at Belle Isle; and matinee dances held every month.

The Council also established an Honorary Society for women, to correspond with the Mackenzie Honor Society for men. Supervision of the Handbook was adopted as a Council function, as was the selection of varsity cheerleaders. A thorough revision of its Constitution was made by the Council as a climax to its year's work.

The representatives on the Student Council for the past year are as follows: John Batty, president; Genevieve Philbrick, secretary; Edwin McKay, auditor; Helen Baldwin, George Berkaw, Carl Sprunk, and Carl Stotz, representatives of the Senior Class; George Backoff, Edwin Dittmer, Lillian Hitchman, Victor Spathelf, and Helen Tackabury, representatives of the Junior Class; Carl Blomfield and Wallace Bohns of the Sophomore Class; Jack Peckham, freshman representative; and Harold Heyn, first semester and Harold Maxmen, second semester, from the College of Pharmacy.

J-HOP, 1930

BRINGING the college social affairs to a colorful climax, over three hundred persons were guests of the class of 1931, at the J-Hop, which was held in the ballroom of the General Motors Building, on Friday evening, January seventeenth. Against a modernistic background of ebony and brilliants, Jackie Johnston and his orchestra, a Chicago importation, interpreted the melodies of the day with a sufficient mixture of jazz and dignity to lend the desired formal atmosphere.

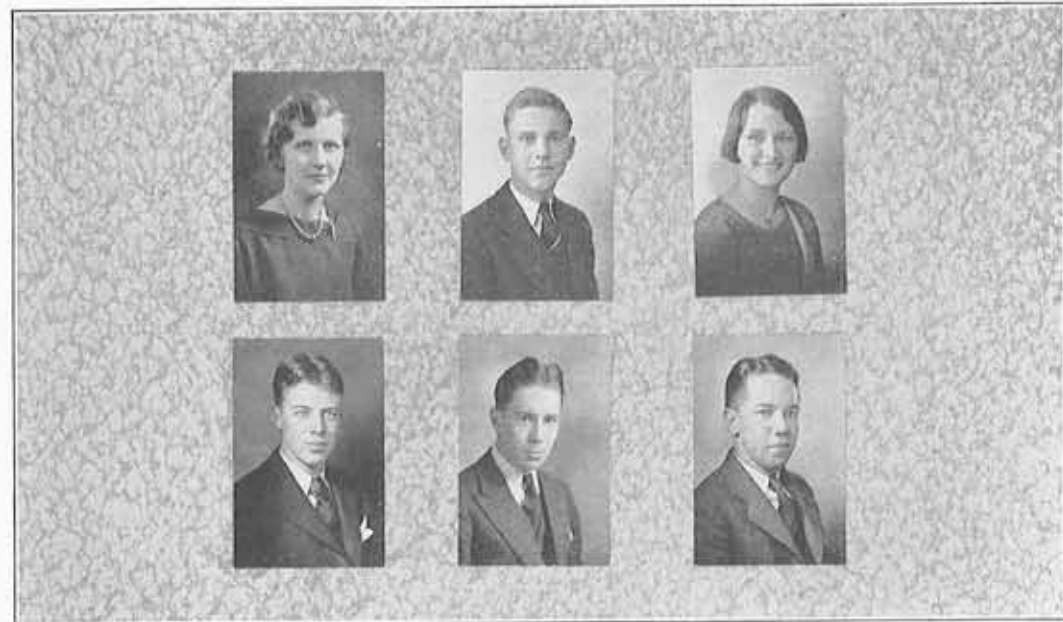

For the first time in the history of J-Hops, the committee was headed by a co-ed, Helen Tackabury who led the grand march. The modern motif was also carried out in the favors, which were shadow lamps in black and silver.

Miss Tackabury was assisted by the following committee members: Lillian Hitchman and Eugenia Johnson, decorations; Edwin Dittmer, floor; Margaret Darnell, patrons; Mary Campbell, favors; Isabella Witt, program; Edwin Buttrum, publicity; Frederick Cork, tickets; and Leslie Langa, orchestra.

The patrons and patronesses were: Mr. and Mrs. John Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kemmer, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schmemau, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Skinner, and Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Delattre.

The guests of honor were: Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Hitchman, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Couse, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Witt, Dean and Mrs. W. L. Coffey, Dean Albertus Darnell, Dean and Mrs. J. P. Selden.

FROSH FROLIC 1929

THE spirit of carnival reigned as students and alumni, masked and gayly disguised, danced at the Frosh Frolic, the annual masquerade given by the Student Council in honor of the freshmen, which, this year, was held on Friday evening, November first.

The two gyms, utilized to accommodate the large number of guests, were attractively decorated in streamer effects in orange and black, and green and gold, and provided a colorful setting for the eccentric costumes. Russ White's orchestra in the women's gym, and McFarlane's "Victors" in the men's gym furnished continuous music for dancing.

The Student Council committee, in charge of the affair, was headed by Carl Stotz. Assisting him were Homer Strale, floor; Edwin Dittmer, tickets; Margaret Darnell, invitations; Jean Hegwood and Warren Cone, decorations; Helen Tackabury, refreshments.

The patrons and patronesses were: Mr. and Mrs. Chester Kuhn, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Judkins, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sargent.

The guests of the Student Council were: Dean Albertus Darnell, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Batty, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stotz, Dean and Mrs. W. L. Coffey, Dean and Mrs. J. P. Selden.

A. W. S. DANCE

CONTINUING the custom of entertaining the men of the college at a party given entirely by the women, the Association of Women Students again this year held a formal courtesy dance at the ballroom of the Hotel Wardell, on Friday evening, February twenty-eighth. Jules Klein's Grosse Pointe Yacht Club orchestra furnished the music, to which approximately eighty couples danced. Dances were arranged with the aid of attractive, modernistic programs. Small boutonnieres of white carnations were presented to the men.

The general committee consisted of: Elizabeth Busse, chairman; Genevieve Philbrick, tickets; Genevieve Brophy, invitations; Alice Gullen, patrons; Alice Baldwin, publicity; Jeannette Pratt, floor; and Jean Hegwood, music.

The guests of the A. W. S. were Dean W. L. Coffey, Miss Ethel W. B. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Olive Thomas, Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Miller.

MEN'S DEBATE TEAM

WITH the scalps of some of the best debate schools in the Middle West adorning their rebuttal boxes, the members of Detroit City's debate squads have concluded another highly successful season. Included in the triumphs set forth in their record of 12 won and 6 lost (a percentage of .667), are dual victories over Albion and Purdue, champions of the Michigan Debating League and the Big Ten, respectively.

The men who were responsible for this record, under the coaching of Professor E. Ray Skinner, were Charles Stewart, Leo Gurko, and Frederick Herrmann, composing the 'varsity affirmative squad; Richard Sherod, Harry Golder, and Clarence Wylie on the 'varsity negative; Garnet Garrison, Glenn Massnick, and Jerome Rothenberg on the reserve negative; and Frank Amprim, Everett Seymour, and either Gurko or Herrmann filling in on the reserve affirmative.

Debate history was made this season by the inauguration of a women's debate squad under the direction of Professor Preston H. Scott, father of intercollegiate debating for men at Detroit City. The new women's squads, composed of Margaret Stockwell, Natalie Wiscinski, Norma Siegel, Dorothy Ballard, Bernice Brennan, and Jeanne Wylie, though rather unsuccessful in their intercollegiate contests, gave excellent opposition to their opponents and offer great promise for the coming season.

WOMEN'S DEBATE TEAM

A large part of the team's work, ever growing both in extent and importance, has been the schedule of exhibition debates before various organizations in the city interested in the discussion of current questions. This season's proposition relative to complete international disarmament had almost universal appeal, with the result that several intercollegiate debates and many more debates between Tartar teams were held before Kiwanis clubs, church organizations and women's clubs. Debates with Michigan State Normal College were held at Northville and Plymouth high schools, while the home contests with Purdue and Western Reserve were held before local organizations.

The most interesting event of the season was probably the last named contest, held before the Detroit Sorosis Club, when it was discovered, five minutes before the debate was to start, that Western Reserve had sent an affirmative team to Detroit while the Tartar team was also expecting to uphold the affirmative. Golder and Wylie of Detroit's negative team, arriving to hear the debate, combined with Herrmann, who changed from the affirmative, to oppose the Reserve team and avoid disappointing their audience. Though Western Reserve won the decision, Detroit won the commendation of the judge and the congratulations of both the audience and their opponents on their versatility and sportsmanship, qualities always present in Detroit City's teams, but seldom quite so well illustrated.

"THE RED MILL"

SPARKLING comedy and charming melody against a quaint Dutch background, were the features of the eleventh annual musical comedy, "The Red Mill," by Victor Herbert, which was presented at the Scottish Rite Cathedral of the Masonic Temple on Friday and Saturday, March 14 and 15. The production was directed by Professor Louise W. Conklin assisted by James A. Gibb. Victor Spathelf was business manager.

The comedy interest centered around the two Americans "Kid Conner" and "Con Kidder," who were "doing" Europe, and their successful interference in the love affairs of Gretchen, the burgomaster's daughter. The charming Herbert melodies were effectively sung and the dancing chorus, trained by Miss Jessie Whitham, added its note of color and charm to the production.

THE ORATORICAL CONTEST

THROUGHOUT the year those students interested in public speaking developed excellent speeches, which they presented in competition for the Larry Davidow Oratorical Contest. Increased interest in public speaking bringing out a greater number of competitors, the Oratorical contest again proves its merits as a worth-while undertaking. The Davidow prizes were awarded to Richard Sherod, who took first place with his powerful oration on "Disarmament," and to Clarence Wylie.

Helen Jo Baldwin was awarded first place among the women. Her subject was "Values."

THE MIXERS

CONTINUING the policy of enabling the Freshman women and upper-class women to become acquainted with one another, the A. W. S. again this year has sponsored the two women's mixers, at the beginning of each of the semesters. These affairs, consisting of dinner, program, and dancing, provide an excellent way of welcoming the new women to the college.

The fall mixer was held at the Women's Federation Building on Thursday evening, September third. Professor Ethel W. B. Chase, dean of women, was the principal speaker, explaining some of the ideals for which the women of the college are working. Eugenia Johnson was in charge of arrangements.

The second semester mixer, under the direction of Mary Campbell, was held at the Y. W. C. A. Building, on the evening of February twentieth. Mrs. Grace Keal spoke on some of her experiences during her recent sojourn in England.

Under the direction of Webster Evans, one hundred and fifty men met on October fourth for the annual Men's Mixer at the Cadillac Athletic Club.

The banquet was featured by the introduction of Mr. Norman G. Wann, the new football coach. Coach David L. Holmes as toastmaster introduced Mr. Vaughn Blanchard, Director of Health Education in the Detroit Schools, and Dean Wilford L. Coffey, the speakers of the evening.

CLASS GAMES AND FIELD DAY

TO the background of rain and sunshine, fall and spring, the student body celebrated the two Belle Isle outings of the year, class games which were held on October 24th and Field Day on May 22nd. Sophomores emerged victorious in October, defeating the Freshmen in two out of the three contests comprising the class games. They were triumphant in the push ball game, succeeded in defending their flag against the Frosh, but in the end were dragged through the chilling waters of the creek by the enthusiastic younger class men. The cold, rainy weather caused the mud to fly thick and fast. The Sophomore and Freshman contingents were captained by Harry Harding and Jack Peckham respectively.

An entirely different sort of setting, one of blue skies, warm breezes, and a shining sun which caused many red noses and blistered shoulders, greeted the Field Day enthusiasts. The stimulating competition caused by rolling-pin contests, three-legged and potato races, and the big pie-eating fracas, made for much merriment. The climax of the day was the Field Day dance, sponsored by the Student Council, and held in the Casino.

THE MACKENZIE HONOR SOCIETY

THE Mackenzie Honor Society, which was organized in 1927, consists of men elected to membership because of their outstanding contributions to the college during their four years of undergraduate work. The purpose of the society is to honor those seniors who have achieved notable success in extra-curricular activities. Although scholarship is not the aim of the organization, candidates must have attained a satisfactory standing in the class room.

The elections take place during the spring semester; members elected the previous year, together with Dean J. P. Selden, Professor J. Thomas, and Professor E. R. Phelps, cast the ballots.

The Mackenzie honor award is the highest honor that can be paid to any member of the student body. Four men of the class of 1930 were so named. They are: George R. Berkaw, Jr., Carl L. Stotz, John Batty, and Elmer Pollakowski.

WOMAN'S HONOR SOCIETY

THE Woman's Honor Society was organized early in the spring semester of 1930. It was felt that an organization of its kind was needed for women students who had achieved notable success in extra-curricular activities. In the near future the members elected will select a more attractive name for their society.

This year being the first year of the society, a committee appointed by Dean Wilford Coffey, consisting of Professor Grace Hill, Professor Emmelyn Gardner, and Professor Katherine Chamberlin, made the elections. Unlike Mackenzie Honor Society, high scholarship played a very important part in the elections. The members of the class of 1930 who were honored were: Lois Trapp, Genevieve Philbrick, and Helen Jo Baldwin. The committee also selected members from each class since the class of 1925.

SCHOLARSHIP HONOR SOCIETY

PROBABLY the most important organization that appeared on the Detroit City campus this year was the Scholarship Honor Society. It has been felt for some time that an organization modeled after Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi should exist at Detroit City. A committee appointed by the Dean drew up the charter and by-laws, which were adopted in May, 1929. The first elections were announced during the spring semester of 1930. Election to membership is made only to those students who have ranked in the upper five per cent of their class in scholastic standing. Following is list of the names of students who were elected this year:

FRIARS

THE order of the Friars is the Junior Honorary Society for men students who during their Freshman and Sophomore years have made outstanding contributions to the college. Each year seven men are selected by the members elected the year before, together with Dean J. P. Selden, Professor P. H. Scott, and Professor Donald MacLaughlin.

Activities forms the only basis for election in this group. The purpose of the order is to honor outstanding men, and to have as an organized body individuals who will carry out the ideals and the activities of the college. This year Victor Spathelf, Leslie Langs, David Beauvais, Henry Backus, Lawrence Russell, Paul Lutzeier, and Edwin Dittmer were elected to membership. Their keys were awarded to them at the annual banquet held late in the month of May.

THE ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN STUDENTS

THE Association of Women Students, more familiarly called the Women's League, is a member of the national A. W. S. and is open to all women enrolled in the college. They are automatically admitted upon registration and are welcome to participate in League activities.

The organization is represented each spring at the Intercollegiate Conference of the National Association by the president and the president-elect.

A Cabinet of thirteen consisting of the four officers, and representatives of classes and women's organizations as appointed by the president, serves to govern the women's activities.

The League endeavors to offer to all college women the opportunity to meet and work with other college women for the individual and group good. To this end it maintains the League Room, Book Exchange, Women's Scholarship Fund, Women's Sick Loan Fund, and Women's Building Fund, the latter two are new projects. The social affairs sponsored by the A. W. S. include Freshman teas, semi-annual mixers and house-parties, a Mother and Daughter tea, a Formal Courtesy dance, and informal teas and dances. A Christmas Charity party and a bazaar have also been annual activities.

Officers for this year were: President, Helen Jo Baldwin; Vice-president, Lois Trapp; Secretary, Edna Aumann; Treasurer, Genevieve Philbrick. Miss Ethel W. B. Chase, Advisor to women, is Counsellor to the Cabinet.

FRESHMAN COMMISSION

THE twenty members of the Freshman Commission were elected in September by the women of the Freshman class to further A. W. S. work. Those chosen were: Mary Barrett, Virginia Charley, Betty Duncan, Jean Dunlap, Dora Hamilton, Audrey Herban, Dorothy Karrick, Jean Kreg, Elizabeth Mittelstaedt, Mildred Moore, Bernadine Plotzke, Virginia Roberts, Jeannette Secker, Louise Soloman, Lorraine Van Tassell, June Urquhart, and Carmen Wheeler. Following tradition, the vice-president and secretary of the class, Alice Baldwin and Jean Hughes, became president and secretary of the commission.

The commission managed the Christmas Card booth at the A. W. S. Bazaar and sponsored the making of a patchwork pillow to be sold there. The women dressed dolls for the Christmas Charity party, served on the League Room Committee, managed the book exchange the second semester, and served at the Women's Mixer the first semester. The commission entered class activities by taking charge of the purchase and sale of new berets, serving refreshments at matinee dances, and by serving doughnuts and coffee at the class games.

Instigating a new plan this year, the commission held a "Hard Times" party for its members and their guests.

THE GANG

GAS HOUSE GANG

WHEN Detroit City was a junior college a group of men on the campus organized a club which would back the athletic, the social, and student life of the college. They established quarters in the college's basement, drew up a constitution and organized under the name of the Gas House Gang. Over the years the Gang has steadfastly attempted to back all college functions.

THE STUDENT CLUB

THE Student Club, a college organization open to all men interested in its activities, sponsored a varied program this past year. It also maintained in Webster Hall a clubroom as a commons for the men students, and for the use of various organizations.

A high point in its activities was the Social and Industrial Laboratory conference conducted in this city under the direction of Dr. Jerome Davis of Yale University, for which the club acted as the host to the one hundred and fifty students from the Michigan colleges who attended the conference. A number of the club's members also attended the Bruce Curry conference held by the state Y. M. C. A. in Ann Arbor during January. Climaxing the year will be the annual Geneva conference, to which the club expects to send a large delegation.

Other functions of the club have been the sponsoring of the International Students Club, the Wednesday evening supper forums, at which prominent speakers have been presented, and the International Relations Club, for the study of international relations.

WHY INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS?

THE recently published Carnegie investigation has made public so many evils attendant upon intercollegiate athletics that one may well ask if their continuation is worth while.

One of the fundamental characteristics of human nature is the desire to compete with others and to win in so doing. In the olden days this trait found an outlet in the many wars that were fought; in our day it finds expression in competitive athletics.

Intercollegiate athletics is the very foundation of most our of "college spirit." Examine the many college songs if you wish an illustration of this point. The loyalty of students and alumni to their Alma Mater is very closely connected with their interest in the athletic teams of their college.

The development of character produced by athletic training and competition is widely recognized. Many boys who seemed to lack personality and qualities of leadership as freshmen have become strong leaders by the time they are seniors, very largely as a result of their work in competitive athletics.

The desire of the normal "red-blooded" boy for athletic competition, the development of character and leadership qualities by this competition, and the intense interest of students, alumni, and the public are some of the factors that lead me to believe that intercollegiate athletics will continue until human nature is changed.

FOOTBALL

WHILE the 1929 football season was not a success for Detroit City insofar as the number of games won is concerned, it was decidedly successful in that a good grade of football was in evidence at each game. Our new coach, Norman Wann, had only a small squad from which to select a team and many of the players had had very little football experience.

The competition in the Collegiate Conference was too strong for Detroit City, but a few more years of organized effort will be necessary before we can hope to compete with such schools as Michigan State Normal and Western State Teachers' Colleges.

Detroit City defeated Mt. Pleasant in the last game of the season before the largest crowd of the year. This game, the most important one of the entire schedule, is a grudge game. The Tartars, in winning, regained possession of the old oaken bucket which is the symbol of victory.

THE VARSITY SQUAD

BASKETBALL

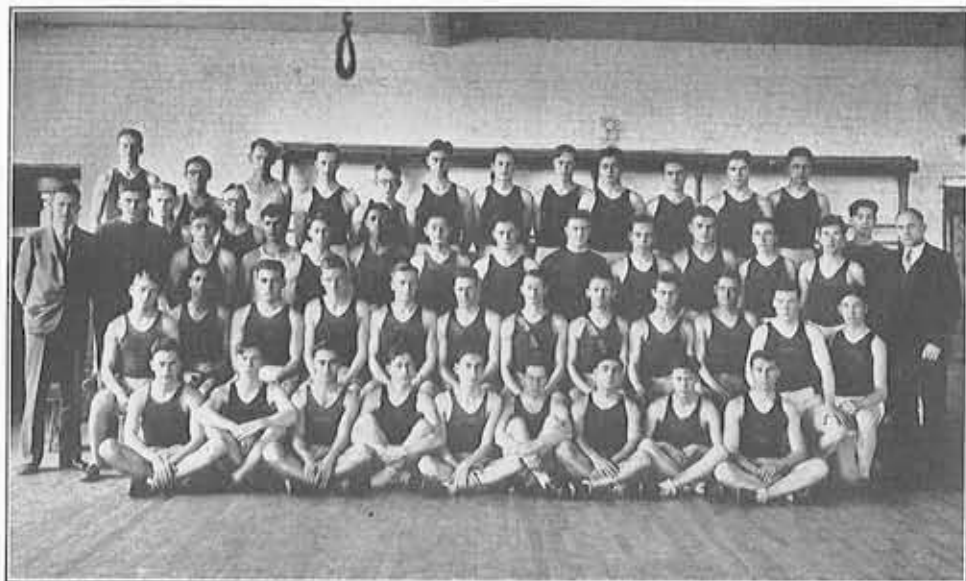

THE Tartars, under the direction of Coach Newman Ertell, completed one of the most successful seasons ever witnessed by Detroit City followers. By winning twelve of its eighteen games, the team proved that it had the spirit to fight until the last game was ended. The team lost six games by very small margins, two of which were decided in overtime periods. The Tartars won from the University of Michigan "B" team in a game which required three five-minute overtime periods and ended in a score of 19-16. The most important game lost by the City team was the Western State Teachers' which resulted in a 31-28 score, after five minutes overtime had been played.

Rather easy victories were gained by the Tartars from Toledo University, Olivet, and St. Mary's of Orchard Lake. City had been defeated by St. Mary's earlier in the season but came back to win the second game, 35-27. St. Mary's is rated as one of the best teams in the state.

Detroit City's Eastern basketball trip was short, but victorious. The Tartars defeated West Liberty Normal College of West Virginia, 30-24, and St. Francis of Loretta, 29-22. The team was beaten by Fairmont Normal by a close score.

City will lose Evans, Wenzel, and Pollakowski through graduation, but five lettermen will remain.

THE VARSITY SQUAD

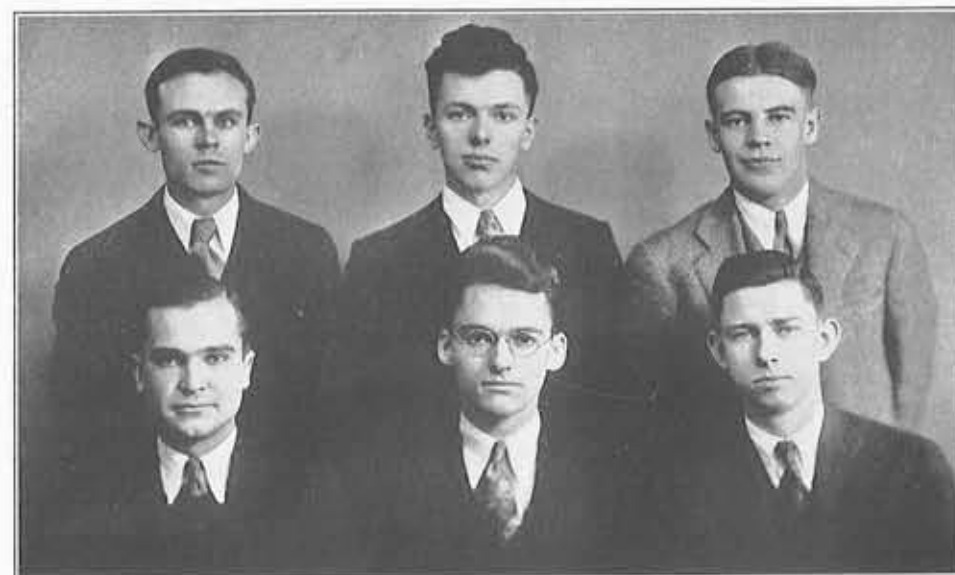

TRACK

THE track team of 1930 is particularly strong in brilliant individual performances, but lacks the desirable few men which would make it a really strong, well balanced team.

Such men as Lewis and Beauvais are very good in the short dashes and hurdles. Spathelf and Lowenstine are consistent performers in the longer distances. James Russell is a sprinter and broad jumper, and Barney Nosanchuck is a pole vaulter. City is comparatively weak in the longer distances, high jump, and weights.

The relay team was victorious in its participation in the Notre Dame, Illinois, Ohio, and Penn Relays. The Tartars have upheld their relay reputation by consistent winnings. Coach David L. Holmes has the reputation of keeping a good relay quartet intact. Russell, Lowenstine, Spathelf, and Lewis are the members of the relay team.

With the help of such stars as Leroy Dues, a sensational freshman who set a new national Junior A. A. U. record in the shot, and Seros, Mumma, and Goldstein, fine additions are expected to be made to next year's team.

THE VARSITY SQUAD

TENNIS

LAST year the tennis team had a comparatively unsuccessful season, due to the inexperience of the squad. The 1930 team, however, anticipates a successful year because of the number and ability of the men returning.

With four veterans and some capable freshmen from last year's freshman team ready to compete, the outlook is promising. Thomas Cauley, Raymond Wilson, Gervid Atkinson, and William McNaughton are the players back and George Botts, a hard-driving player, comes up from the freshmen ranks.

The squad is captained by William McNaughton, who should fare well in competition. Tom Cauley, who played two years ago, and Ray Wilson, two experienced netmen, should also give good accounts of themselves.

Among the schools to be met are: Michigan State, Western State Teachers' College, Armour Tech, and Ypsilanti Normal. Western State and Michigan State should be the most difficult schools. Western State has "Skinny" Byrum, State Intercollegiate titleholder, and others, while Michigan State boasts of Paul Kane, runner-up to Byrum. The teams will also enter the Michigan State Intercollegiate, the State Invitational Collegiate Conference, and, possibly, the Central States Intercollegiate tournaments.

THE FENCING SQUAD

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

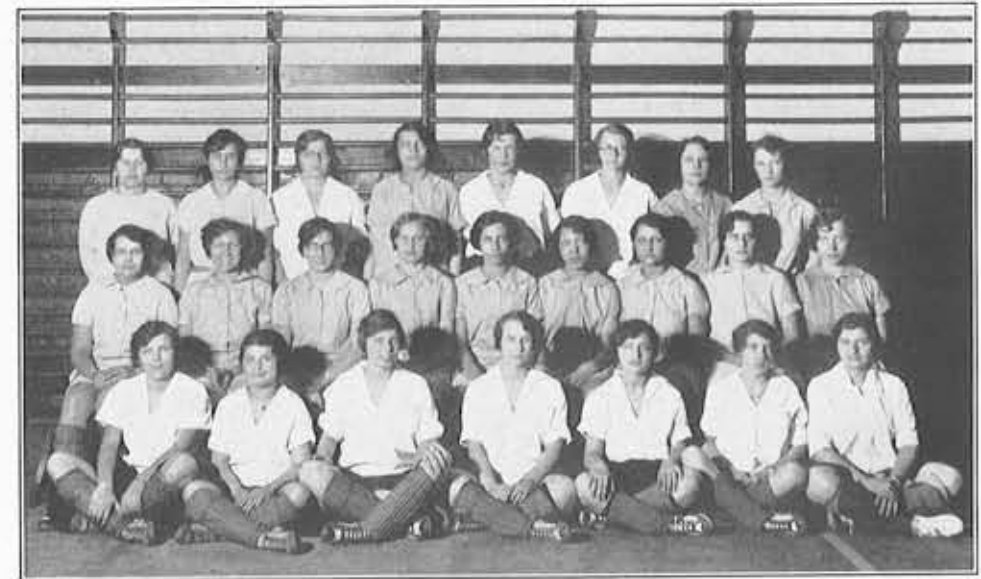

THE women's athletic program, under the direction of Miss Witham, assisted by Miss Peters, was as complete as any school could wish. The athletic activities offered the student an excellent test of sportsmanship as well as developed the competitive spirit, which is an asset in actual life.

In addition to the regular gymnasium, swimming and dancing classes, outdoor sports are a part of the program. Riding, hockey, archery, golf, and baseball are the outdoor sports which offer each student a chance to participate.

Group competition is especially prevalent in such sports as basketball, hockey, baseball, and volleyball. Individual abilities are displayed in archery, tennis, and fencing. These minor sports are especially good for the development of skill, grace, and quick thinking. Tennis tournaments, as well as others, decide the individual stars in each sport.

Honor points are given to winners of the various tournaments. Under the present system, three hundred points entitles a woman to a pin, six hundred allows a gold ring, and one thousand points carries with it the highest honor of all, a lettered college sweater.

THE HOCKEY SQUAD

HOCKEY

HOCKEY, comparatively new at Detroit City, is one of the leading sports at the present time. Detroit City women are able to practice and play their games in the rear of the college, which makes possible the development of many good teams.

The competition in this sport is brought out by the division of all hockey enthusiasts into East and West side teams, and Teachers' College teams, the latter composed of freshmen attending City, who are later to be transferred to Teachers' College. These teams are always peppy and well organized and are captained by their best players. All games are arranged through the athletic department, which requires that all women participating in these games must be students in good scholastic standing.

It is fortunate that hockey is played in the spring of the year, because students, anxious to get out in the fresh air, enter the competition.

THE BASKETBALL SQUAD

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

LN women's athletics basketball is extremely popular. The excellent amount of available material makes possible the organization of many good teams. With these good teams in the field, it is easily understood why the competition and interest is so keen. Under the present system the good players are distributed among the various teams. This equalizes the various teams and incites greater pleasure in all participants.

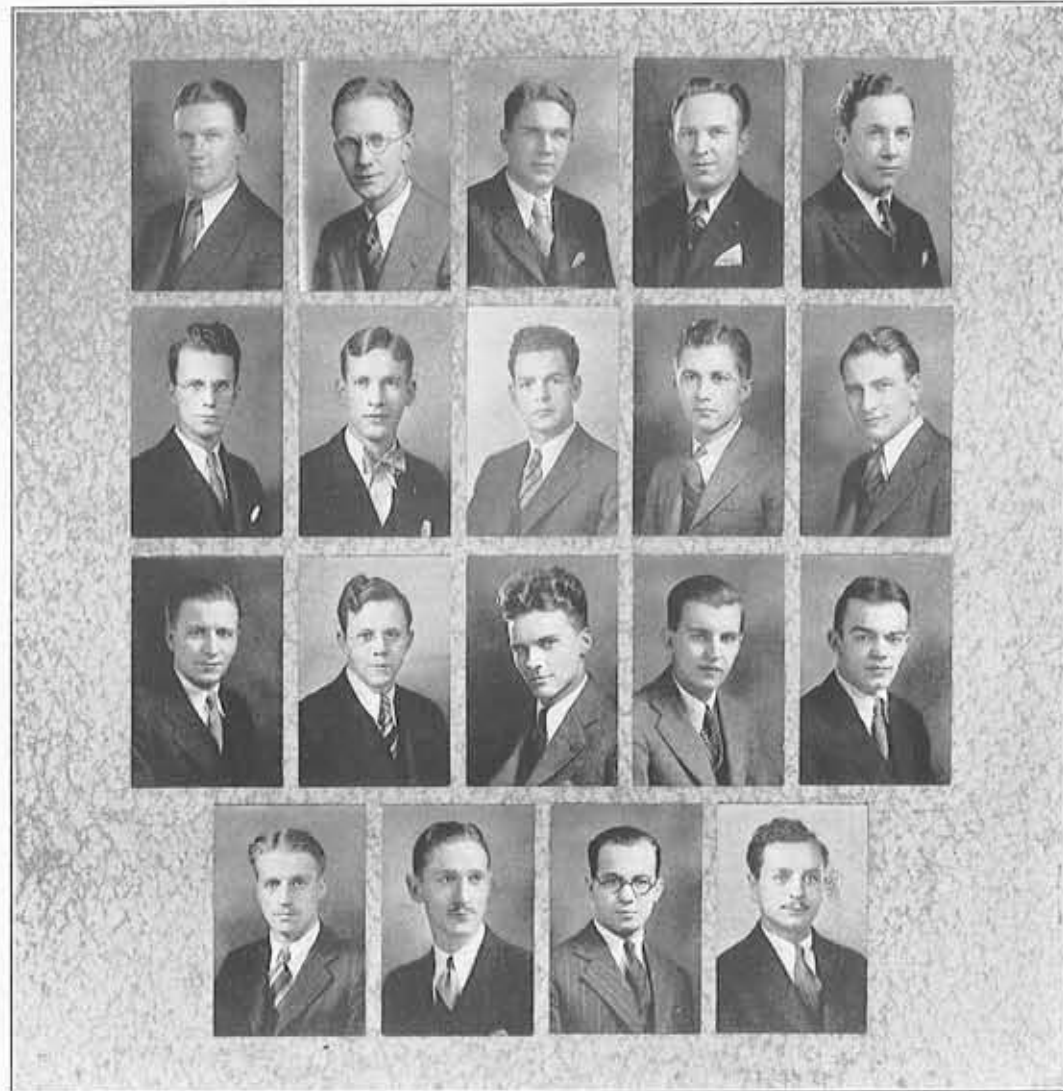

Detroit City's women's basketball team plays a series of three games with Teachers' College every year. In the past the City teams have captured the series with ease. Teams representing the East and West sides also play a set of games to determine which side of the city has developed the best players. The program for women's basketball is more complete than any of the other sports in the women's athletic department.

THE FIRST CASE

Early in practice while I was a member of the National Guard one of the members was charged with simple larceny, and being impressed with a sense of duty I agreed to defend him. As soon as the trial began it was apparent that the accused was guilty. The Court imposed a fine of five dollars or thirty days. My client having no funds, I found it necessary to confer with some of our fellow-members who were present, and much to my sorrow discovered their impecunious condition; the result being that I paid the fine and became embodied in their status. Getting but little satisfaction out of this legal deal, I said my adieu and turned about to get my newly purchased straw hat which I had so carefully placed on a nearby hook. Much to my amazement it was gone. Anxiously looking around I discovered my former hatless client walking nonchalantly out of the Court Room with my prized hat perched securely upon his head.

HARRY B. KEIDAN.

Someone has said that in a ton of law there isn't an ounce of love. However that may be, it is quite certain that in a ton of law there is more than an ounce of humor. Serious matters call forth humorous situations and there is laughter in the most unexpected places.

In an early case, I was sent into Court in a suit for dissolution of an undertaking business conducted by two brothers. A receiver had been appointed. Counsel for defendant moved to discharge the receiver, and, during his argument, by his very obstreperous and over-persistent attitude, succeeded in riling the Court considerably. At the end of an extended colloquy, defendant's counsel exclaimed, with a sweeping gesture, "Here's my client, dispossessed of his business and his livelihood. What, your Honor, can I do for my client?" The Court promptly responded, "Jump in the lake, that will make some business for him!"

ABRAHAM J. LEVIN.

THE FIRST CASE

Shortly after graduating from Law School, I received notice of an assignment as counsel for a defendant in the Recorder's Court. I visited my client in the County Jail. He had been arrested in an alley with a burlap bag full of lead pipe. The hatchet he carried fitted the marks on the plumbing in a nearby vacant house. I did not urge him to plead guilty. We went through the trial without a defense. The jury promptly brought him in guilty.

I will never forget my own sensations on the trial. Helplessness, fear and desperation were some of the conflicting emotions crowding into my mind. My few remarks were received with kind attention by the Court, and when the case was closed and I had argued the question of reasonable doubt to the jury I felt greatly relieved.

I suppose the first time in Court is always a baptism of fire for the novice. I hope most beginners accomplish more in earning their fees than I did.

ALLAN CAMPBELL.

When I was a fledging, an architect, who had designed the first motion picture theatre with seats rising sharply from the screen and copyrighted the plans, wanted to sue a promotor for unauthorized publication. The promotor had caused the pictures to be printed in the Chicago Tribune, and sniffing a rich fee, I dictated a peremptory demand for immediate settlement at one dollar per copy, as allowed by the copyright law.

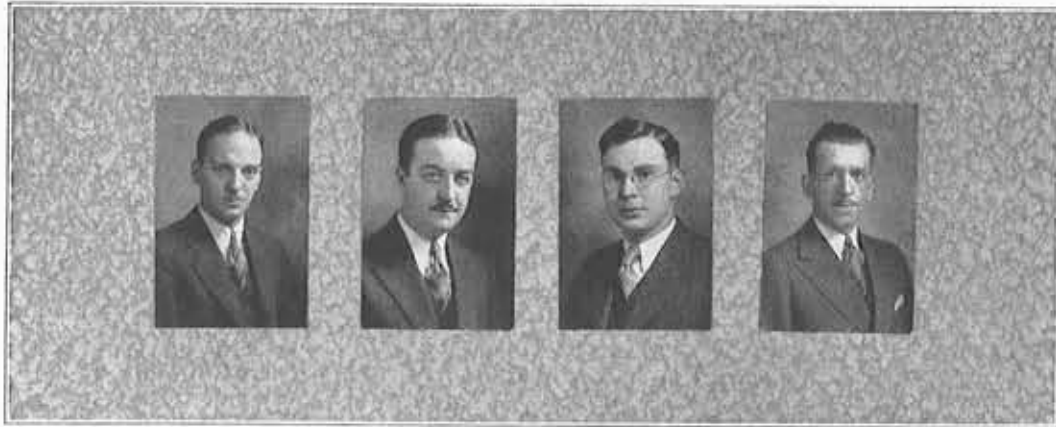

By the time the promotor's lawyer called I had learned that the copyright did not cover the particular photographs used. However, I insisted upon there being a violation of our copyright on the plans. The lawyer promised to give me his answer shortly. He did, and wrote me the following letter:

"Dear Sir:

"I have gone into the matter of your claim of violation of Mr. Brown's copyright and cannot find that my client is wrong. I therefore decline to make any settlement.

"It is my understanding the amphitheatre type of architecture was designed originally by the ancient Greeks, and if your client is the originator of this design he must be a very old man. I trust he is still enjoying good health."

CLASSES

CLASS OF 1930

IT IS not entirely clear why we must at a specific time—this June of 1930—accept an LL.B. as a badge of the completion of our formal study of law. But such is the case. It is an old custom and we as legal philosophers have learned the value and power of habit and custom. We understand in part, we accept logically, our present status. Yet upon further inquiry we cannot fully understand it. However, we do know that we must leave our school, professors and fellow-students.

Some time subsequent to September, 1926, most of us assembled with a blind conception of the law. We began a systematized study of it. As time passed our blindness changed to wonder and to fear, perhaps to understanding. The individual traits of each became known to his classmates and instructors. A few principles of law became known to us. Our blind reverence became real and sincere. We progressed!

Our origin was not regular. Some came from other Law Schools, while some were members of a mid-year class. Time was the cure for our differences in spirit and idea. For in spite of any unavoidable, one-time atmosphere of incompatibility, we are now members of the class of 1930 in body and in spirit. We hope that we have acquired some of that rare broad-mindedness and dignity which characterize a good lawyer. We are proud of our present position, for we know well the wisdom of the truism that before we can be lawyers we must be men.

So in accordance with the mysterious forces of evolution and the established powers of precedent we push onward, or are pushed onward, out of Law School that room may be made for the neophytes of 1930. We wish all of our successors well. We hope that they may find the joy and sorrow that we have found in the study of law thus far. Also that they may find and enjoy some of the comradeship among their classmates that we have treasured and will treasure. We know they will. They control their words and deeds—the fulfillment lies within each of them.

It is with reluctance and with pleasure that we part and leave behind us those affiliations that have been so close to us during these last four years. Although we have advanced, we know that greater duty lies ahead. We know that we are "finished, yet beginning."

THE first class to enter the Detroit City Law School as Freshmen has completed its third year at the institution. The members of the Junior class enrolled when the school was first opened in September, 1927, as students new to the study of law. The class was at that time, and has remained ever since, the largest in the school.

In its three years the Class of '31 has maintained a high standard of scholarship. Its members have affiliated themselves from the very first with the various school activities. There were numerous functions of a class nature; though, of course, affairs of a social nature were necessarily limited in a night law school.

As Freshmen, the class confined itself to athletics as a relaxation and was splendidly represented in the basketball and baseball leagues in inter-class competition. As a Sophomore class it was host to the Class of '32 at a dance at the Women's Federation Building. This year, in February, the Junior class sponsored the Law Prom which was given at the Wardell Hotel.

With its creditable record and high standard of three years, the Class of '31 is confident of its ability to maintain both during the fourth and final year at the school, and that it will be able to conclude its career at the Detroit City Law School, one year hence, with honor and credit.

THE fog in which we wandered last year has lifted somewhat and at this time we feel more at home in the legal world. Through the patience of the faculty and their unselfish help we now can show appreciation and achieve benefits in more subtle intricacies of the law. Becoming conscious of ourselves as a class and being head and shoulders above the mist, we felt competent to instigate and sponsor a Sophomore Frolic. The Frolic was presented to aid the Freshmen in adjusting themselves to their new environment, and to encourage social activity among under-classmen.

Having reached the halfway-mark in our quest of a legal education, and attained a fair success in our first two years at the Detroit City Law School, we shall endeavor to maintain the security and recognition our efforts have won for us.

FOR the first time we, the Class of '33, review our past and write the annals of 1929. Henceforth 1929 will merely be a number with no significance attached to it, and our history in the future will be written no longer thus shortly or read so easily.

The past year was one of unrest and depression. However, to the Dean and Faculty we are grateful for their guidance through our first stages of acclimation to the study of law.

In closing our brief history we are not ashamed of our record, since the mistakes we made were honest, and we are looking forward to a continued performance of our duties, faithful attendance at our classes, and a renewed vigor in maintaining the high scholarship we have attained.

THE LAW PROM

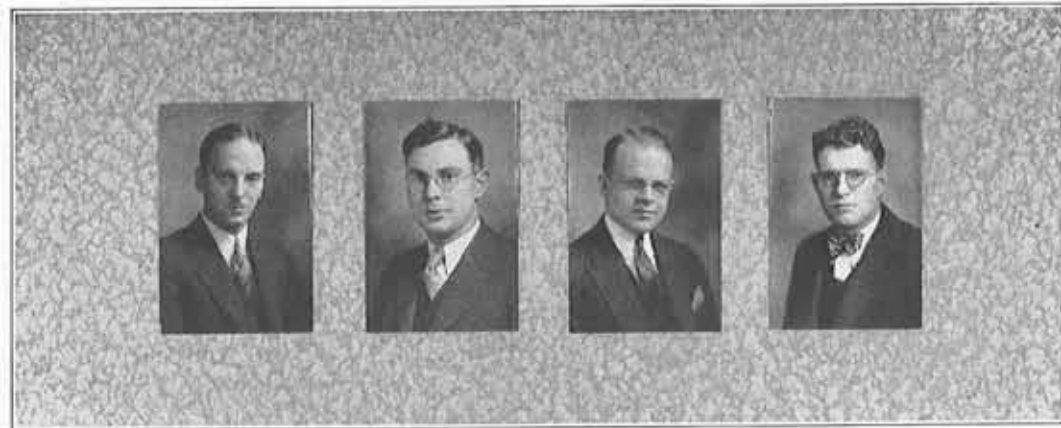

IN every forest there is a tree that towers above all others. By the same token, of all the many successful social events of the school year there must be one that will remain in memory longer than any other. Such in the writer's opinion was the Law Prom held at the Wardell Hotel on February 22, 1930.

Under Junior leadership the executive committee arranged and carried through a program which will be remembered by all who attended. Not a thing was lacking; beautiful music, brilliant lights, a riot of color, Parisian gowns, charming and attractive ladies, friendly and congenial classmates. And yet the simplicity of it, the freedom from formality, was its greatest charm.

The hour was set at nine. By ten the dance was in full swing. It was a happy scene. Young men with their sweethearts, husbands with their wives; living, dancing and enjoying themselves on that night of nights. And such it was. For where can be found joy so unconfined, or happiness so great, as when ye students of the law leave their jealous mistress behind and go forth in quest of entertainment. Most satisfying was the sight of dignified jurists and professors with their charming wives mingling freely with youth. All seemed to feel the spirit of the occasion.

The affair will never be recorded among the great social events of history. It is doubtful if it will ever be called to the attention of the chroniclers of the social registers. But to those of us who attended it has stamped an indelible impression, an everlasting memory of that which it so truly portrayed: the true spirit of the Detroit City Law School.

SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS

SCHOLARSHIP is receiving increasing recognition in the field of law. By scholarship is not meant the academic and impractical mentality so often associated with that term. Not mere "bookishness," but rather the ability to read opinions and texts understandingly, and to convincingly apply the knowledge gained to concrete cases.

Of course, there are additional requirements for success in the practice of law. Industry and integrity are essential. Personality and oratorical gifts, not to mention the large factor attributable to accidents of birth and environment, are tremendously important. Nevertheless it may be predicted safely that the students in the honor group are more likely than others to achieve success. They are to be congratulated, therefore, not so much upon the honor or money awards received, as upon the possession of a capacity for study and analysis without which real success in their chosen field would be impossible. We hope their success may be comparable to that of the donor whose generosity has made the monetary feature of these awards available.

THE STUDENT-FACULTY BANQUET

THE Third Annual Student-Faculty Banquet of the Detroit City Law School was held in the main ballroom of the Cadillac Athletic Club on the evening of April third, 1930.

The speaker of the evening, Hon. John B. Bayly, Assistant Attorney General of the Province of Ontario, was introduced by Toastmaster Hon. Allan Campbell. Mr. Bayly gave an interesting and instructive talk on criminal procedure and practice in the courts of Canada. The guest of honor said in substance: "Although Canadian procedure is very similar to that practiced in the United States, the speed and efficiency in the handling of cases and selection of juries is far superior to that accomplished by any United States court." He indicated the advantage of having judges appointed for life and the consequential elimination of political influence in Canadian jurisprudence.

Edmund C. Shields of the Michigan Bar Examiners was the next speaker. He was greeted with enthusiasm by the practicing lawyers of the alumni, and with keen interest by the potential lawyers of the student body. Mr. Shields spoke of the necessary qualifications of a successful lawyer and his importance to any progressive government. He also described the operation of the board of bar examiners and their method of impartial examinations.

Dean Campbell introduced a number of judges, presiding throughout the courts of Michigan, as honored guests of the evening. Jurists representing all portions of the state were among those presented. So numerous was the representation that all the guests could not be accommodated at the speaker's table. In conclusion of a perfect banquet Dean Campbell presented a number of scholarship awards to outstanding individuals of the student body.

The extraordinary success of this banquet, as the culminating social event of the year, is credited to the Committee and President of the Student Council, as well as being a true reflection of the interest and character of the School.

CONSTITUTIONAL LAW CONTEST

LT would be next to sacrilege to close another chapter in the history of the Detroit City Law School without mention of the latest innovation introduced this year into student activity, namely, competitive oral arguments involving questions of law which have long been "pro and conners" with the profession.

Sensing the practical value of such arguments, John C. Bills, instructor in Constitutional Law, decided to experiment with his class, to which he submitted two questions—controversial in all respects—relative to some doubtful features of eminent domain and compulsory vaccination. Competition was open to all, and, as an added incentive Mr. Bills offered prizes of $50.00 and $25.00 to the winner and loser, respectively, of each argument. Applicants were assigned their respective positions, and, after several months of study, an elimination contest was held to determine the four finalists.

As The Griffin goes to press, the chosen four, Ernest Burkman, Harold Goodman, Harlan Holt and Stanley Schoof are preparing for their final battle, which, if the elimination contest is a criterion, promises to justify the faith placed in them.

Mr. Bills is to be commended for his efforts in promoting a contest which is so instructive as an introduction to practical application of the principles of law.
