George Brewer was born in Braddock City, Pennsylvania. Later, his parents moved to Kansas, and he was educated in the public schools of Marion, Kansas. He attended Avalon College in Trenton, Missouri where he met Grace Babbit, whom he married in 1903. He soon became one of the chief local spokesmen for the Socialist Party. From 1909 to 1917 he worked for the Appeal to Reason in Girard, Kansas, the principal socialist publication in the country at that time. In addition to his articles and news stories, he lectured under the auspices of the Appeal Lecture Bureau. He also served as manager, traveling companion, and secretary to Eugene V. Debs on Debs's Appeal lecture tours. For two years, George Brewer edited and published the Worker's Chronicle in Pittsburg, Kansas. He served a two year term, 1914-1916, as the only Socialist member in the Kansas state legislature. From 1918 to ca. 1924 he lectured for the Non-Partisan League in Minnesota and North Dakota. In 1924 he went to the Pacific Northwest to work for the Railroad Brotherhood Banks and in 1927 went into private business in Los Angeles, California. He died in January, 1967.

Grace Babbit Brewer was born in Livingston, Iowa in 1881, graduated from East High School in Des Moines and also attended Avalon College. She worked for the Appeal to Reason as a secretary to the managing editor, Fred D. Warren. She was also the paper's women's editor and edited its Army column. From ca. 1907 to 1913 she was secretary to Eugene V. Debs and managed the Appeal Lecture Bureau. In 1912 Ms. Brewer was elected trustee of the Crawford County, Kansas High School Board of Education on the Socialist ticket and ca. 1915-1916 served as a member of the Women's National Committee of the Socialist Party. She later worked for the Non-Partisan League in Minnesota, managing its speakers' bureau. She died in January, 1976.
