Accession Number 52
L.C. Number MS

The papers of Emil Mazey were placed in the Archives of Labor and Urban Affairs in 1963 and 1967 and were opened for research in 1968. A second group of papers corresponding to Part 2 of this finding aid were deposited in 1976. This finding aid was revised in 1981.

Emil Mazey was born in Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada, August 2, 1913. His family moved to Detroit two years later, and he was educated in the Detroit public schools. He became interested in Marxism and joined the Proletarian Party which he later left in favor of the Socialist Party which he felt had a more practical program.

His involvement with the labor movement began with the 1933 Briggs strike in which he helped to mobilize pickets. He later lost his jobs at the Gulf Refining Co. and the Rotary Steel Co. as the result of his union activities. He was also active in the Unemployed Citizens' League helping to obtain food for the jobless during the Depression.

After having been discharged from the Briggs Manufacturing Co. in 1936 for organizing he became an International Representative for the newly formed UAW. In 1937 he led the sit-down strike at the Briggs Meldrum plant and was elected to the presidency of the Briggs UAW Local 212. He held that office until 1941.

Mazey played a leading role in organizing the Ford Rouge plant in 1941 and directed wage negotiations with Ford plants nationwide obtaining the highest wage level in the automobile industry. He regained the presidency of Local 212 in 1943 and served until 1944 when he entered the service. During his presidency he gained a reputation for militancy, and led in the effort to obtain full employment equality and acceptance for black workers.

He served in the Phillipines and was a writer for an army newspaper, the Tagalog Times and was publicity director for Golden Gate College, an army school. At the end of the war he wrote newspaper stories critical of wasteful demobilization procedures and organized protest rallies. The attention these protests drew led to his being elected to the International Executive Board of the UAW at the 1946 convention while still in uniform. The following year he was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the UAW, a position he held until his retirement in 1980. In the 1950's Mazey negotiated the largest back pay settlement in U.S. labor history after the twelve-year Kohler Co. strike.

Mazey also served on the Executive Board of the National CIO, the General Board of the AFL-CIO, was a member of the AFL-CIO Civil Rights Committee, was Chairman of the Fair Practices Committee, and was Director of the UAW Veterans, Community Services, and other departments. In addition to his union offices he served on the executive boards of the United Foundation of Metropolitan Detroit, Metropolitan Hospital, and the Community Health Association.

Emil Mazey and his wife, Charlotte, have one son..
