The UAW created Region 9 in 1939, encompassing New Jersey, the eastern portion of Pennsylvania, and upstate New York. Alan Haywood became the first regional director. Leadership changed often until 1944, when Martin Gerber took over. He remained director of Region 9 until 1977, when he was elected a UAW vice-president, serving longer than any other regional director at that time.

Under Gerber's directorship, Region 9 grew from 20,000 to 120,000 members. In addition to servicing the locals in its jurisdiction, the regional office spurred construction of low-cost public housing, promoted equal employment opportunity, sought to expand civil liberties, and encouraged citizen political participation.

The records of the UAW Region 9 Collection consist of correspondence, reports, minutes, negotiating material, and publications related to the activities and interests of the region and its local members.
