The papers of Stanley J. Winkelman were placed in the Archives of Labor and Urban Affairs by Mr. Winkelman in 1992 and 1993, and by his widow, Margaret W. Winkelman, in several increments between 1999 and 2002. An additional two items were added in 2014.

Stanley Jay Winkelman was born in Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan on September 23, 1922 into a family of retailers. His grandfathers, Mose Winkelman and Henry Rosenblum, immigrated to the United States from Europe in the late 1800s and sold supplies to lumberjacks in Michigan's Upper Peninsula before opening department stores in their respective communities: Winkelman's in Manistique, Michigan and Rosenblum's in Gladstone, Michigan.

Stanley's father, Leon Winkelman, operated a dress shop in Sault Ste. Marie, and his uncle, Isadore Winkelman, ran a men's clothing store in Detroit. In 1928, Leon moved his family to Detroit where he and Isadore established a business at Fort Street and Junction under the name of Winkelman Brothers Apparel, Incorporated, the first of what would become a chain of ladies' fashion specialty stores. The company became publicly owned in 1959. In 1966, the name was changed to Winkelman Stores, Inc. and its stock was listed on the American Stock Exchange.

Stanley Winkelman, the oldest of four brothers, attended public schools and received his religious education at Temple Beth El in Detroit. Beginning at the age of ten, he spent his summers washing windows, scrubbing floors, and folding cartons at the Fort Street store. In 1939, Winkelman graduated from Cooley High School and entered the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, where he majored in chemistry and pledged to Zeta Beta Tau Fraternity. That same year, Winkelman met Margaret (Peggy) Jayne Wallace, a high school junior. Peggy entered the University of Michigan in 1941, just months before the bombing of Pearl Harbor and U.S. involvement in World War II. Winkelman's class of 1943 was the last to reach graduation without interruption by the war but, like many of his classmates, he sped up his program and graduated in February of that year. Winkelman immediately went to work on a chemical warfare research project at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena. He and Peggy were married in March of 1943 and moved to the University of California in Berkeley, then on to the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, where he was assigned to other war-related research projects.

In 1944, Winkelman accepted a commission in the Amphibious Forces of the United States Navy and served as Deck Officer and Supply and Commissary Officer on LST-384, the second-oldest LST (Landing Ship Tank) in the fleet, until his discharge in 1946. His first child, Andra, was born in 1945 while he was deployed in the Pacific, but it was another year before they would meet.

Following his discharge from the Navy, Winkelman joined the company founded by his father and uncle, Winkelman Brothers Apparel, Incorporated. He began as a general merchandise administrator, and rose through the ranks to Executive Vice President in 1960, President in 1965, and Chairman and Chief Executive Officer in 1976. In 1957, he made the first of many buying trips to Europe, and quickly developed a flare for analyzing the fashion market, forecasting trends, and adapting products to meet customer tastes. Winkelman Stores offered its shoppers imported European fashions at affordable prices and the chain rapidly grew to nearly 100 stores in Michigan, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Winkelman retired from Winkelman Stores, Inc. in 1984, following the corporate takeover of the company by long-time competitor Milton Petrie and Petrie Stores – a takeover precipitated by the sale of company stock by Winkelman family members. The stores retained the Winkelman name, but closed in 1998. Following his retirement, Winkelman established Stanley Winkelman Associates, Inc., a management consulting firm that specialized in strategic planning. He also sat on several corporate boards, and combined his love of photography and his knowledge of the European fashion scene to become a photojournalist and a member of the working press. For twelve years he attended and photographed the European prêt-a-porter (ready to wear) designer showings each March and October, putting his opinions and photos into a column for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers of Michigan.

Throughout his professional career and his “retirement,” Winkelman also played an active and important role in the business, civic, educational and cultural life of the City of Detroit and the State of Michigan. He served as President of the Metropolitan Affairs Corporation and as a board member of the Detroit Economic Growth Corporation, Detroit Renaissance, the Economic Alliance for Michigan, and the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce. Winkelman also sat on the boards of the United Foundation and United Community Services. He was a member of the Orchestra Hall Advisory Council, and was appointed Chair of the Michigan Commission on Art in Public Places by Gov. James J. Blanchard in 1986.

Winkelman was a life-long member of Temple Beth El and a leader in the Jewish as well as secular community. He served as President of the Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Detroit and board member of the Jewish Welfare Federation and the Jewish Home for the Aged.

As an alumnus and supporter of the University of Michigan, Winkelman was a member of the President's Club, served on the Citizen's Advisory Committee of the University's Dearborn campus, and established the Leon and Isadore Winkelman Chair in Retail Marketing and the Leon and Josephine Winkelman Lecture Series in Gerontology. Both he and Margaret were long-time members of the University of Michigan Friends of the Library. Winkelman also served on a number of committees at Wayne State University, including the Wayne State University Fund Executive Committee and the Wayne State Press Advisory Board.

Perhaps most prominent was Winkelman's commitment to fairness and social justice. He was appointed to the Detroit Commission on Community Relations by Mayor Jerome Cavanaugh in 1962, and in 1963, called upon the Detroit Board of Education to hire more black teachers. Following the Detroit riots of 1967, when many businesses left the city, Winkelman kept his family's stores in Detroit and was instrumental in the founding and shaping of New Detroit, Inc., the nation's first coalition of business, community, and government leaders. He served as its chairman in 1971 and led a subcommittee investigating the Detroit Police Department in an effort to make the force more representative of and responsive to the citizens of the City of Detroit.

Winkelman received many accolades, honors, and awards during his lifetime, including the Jewish Welfare Federation's Fred M. Butzel Memorial Award – the highest leadership honor of the Jewish Community, the Detroit Bar Association's Liberty Bell Award, the University of Detroit's Human Relations Award, the Mercy College "Mercy Medallion," and the Wayne State University Builder of Detroit Award. In 1993, he was presented with a "Doctor of Humane Letters" Honorary Degree from Wayne State University.

Winkelman died of cardiac arrest on August 19, 1999. He and Margaret were the parents of three children and grandparents of seven at the time of his death.

The papers in this collection document the personal and multi-faceted professional life of Stanley J. Winkelman, as well as his extensive work as a community leader. The bulk of these papers consists of correspondence, materials arising from his organization affiliations, and records of Winkelman Stores, Inc. which were generated and collected by the founders and early officers of the company and by Stanley Winkelman throughout his thirty-eight years with the company. Materials relating to his post-retirement work and his affiliations with numerous universities and colleges are also included. Series I
Correspondence, 1957-1998
Boxes 1-3

This series contains correspondence relating to Winkelman's professional and personal life and reflects his dealings with business associates, corporate and civic leaders, city, state and federal officials, foreign dignitaries, members of the media, artists, fashion designers, international friends and associates, personal friends and family. The line between professional and personal correspondence is often blurred as business associates frequently became personal friends over time. Winkelman was a prolific correspondent and remembered friends and acquaintances with lengthy messages at every occasion. His communications are often filled with discussions of world events and social issues and chronicle his own activities, travels, interests and concerns. Correspondence in this series consists of letters both written and received. The bulk of the letters are arranged alphabetically and then in chronological order. Copies of correspondence between May 1985 and March 1988 are also arranged chronologically. In addition to general correspondence files, Winkelman maintained files for certain groups of individuals, and original order has been retained as much as possible. Many files throughout the collection also contain subject-specific correspondence. An Index of selected correspondents is located at the end of the Finding Aid.

Series II
Winkelman Stores, Inc. (Winkelman Brothers Apparel, Incorporated), 1928-1998
Boxes 3-17

This series contains the records of Winkelman Stores, Inc. /Winkelman Brothers Apparel, Incorporated, and consists of materials dating from its establishment in 1928 until June 1984, when Stanley Winkelman retired following the company's acquisition by Milton J. Petrie and Petrie Stores, Inc. Subsequent correspondence and publicity dating to 1998 is also included. Files contain historical materials, corporate records, performance data, publicity, press releases, extensive handwritten notes, and detailed records of all company planning, programs and operations. Of particular interest is the Pradco Management Practices Inventory completed by Winkelman in 1983. His handwritten responses provide great insight into his early home life, ambitions, influences, and perceived attributes and shortcomings. Also of interest are Winkelman's personal notes and background information on the corporate transition of Winkelman Stores to Petrie, and the Winkelman family stock sale that led to the corporate takeover. Files are arranged alphabetically by subject.

Series III
Post-Retirement Business and Professional Activities, 1984-1998
Boxes 17-19

Files in this series contain materials relating to Winkelman's professional activities following his retirement from Winkelman Stores, Inc. The series is divided into three subseries.

Subseries A: Stanley Winkelman Associates (SWA) – Consulting, 1984-1992, Boxes 17-18

This subseries contains the records of Stanley Winkelman Associates, Inc., the management consulting firm established by Winkelman in 1984 which specialized in strategic planning. Files include materials relating to the daily operations of SWA, as well as information on SWA clients and the contacts and services performed on their behalf. A large portion of this subseries consists of files relating to Winkelman's consulting role with Coopers & Lybrand and its efforts to increase labor-intensive apparel manufacturing in the Caribbean as part of the second phase of the U.S. Government's Project Development Assistance Program (PDAP II). Files are arranged alphabetically by subject and client name.

Subseries C: Photojournalism, 1987-1998, Boxes 18-19

This subseries contains material relating to Winkelman's activities as a photojournalist and special writer for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers (O&E) of Michigan. His activities included attending and photographing European prêt-a-porter (ready-to-wear) designer press presentations each March and October, and evaluating the collections and trends for his column. Files contain prêt-a-porter (PAP) invitations/press credentials, published articles, and several unpublished fashion manuscripts. Invitations and articles are arranged chronologically. Unpublished manuscripts are alphabetized by title. When possible, the unedited manuscript version is attached to the published article.

Series V
Organizations, 1899-1998
Boxes 21-40

Winkelman was involved in a myriad of non-profit and professional organizations. The materials contained in this series document his activities in many of these organizations and reflect the depth of his commitment to service. The series is divided into six subseries (A thru F). Subseries A thru E below contain extensive records of the cultural, business, civic, educational, health and welfare agencies and organizations in which Winkelman held leadership roles. Materials commonly include correspondence, memos, reports, newspaper clippings and publicity, meeting minutes, committee records, rosters and membership lists, budgets, brochures, speeches, and handwritten notes. Subseries F contains the records of many additional non-profit organizations served by Winkelman.

Subseries A: The Arts, 1978-1991, Boxes 21-22

Information in this subseries relates to Winkelman's service on the Michigan Commission on Art in Public Places (Chair, 1986-1991) and the Orchestra Hall Executive Advisory Council (1984-1986). Files are arranged alphabetically by name of organization and subheading.

Subseries C: Community Relations, 1961-1998, Boxes 28-34

Winkelman held leadership positions in many organizations dedicated to improving community relations. Included in this subseries are records for the Detroit Commission on Community Relations (Member, 1962-1970), Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Detroit (Director, 1956-1999 and President, 1960-1963), and New Detroit, Inc. (Executive Committee, 1969-1988, Chair, 1971 and Honorary Director, 1986-1999). Of particular interest are the records of New Detroit, Inc. which document efforts made to address issues that fueled tensions and racial turmoil in the City of Detroit during the 1960s, and an essay written by Winkelman on the Detroit riots of 1967.

Personal and Biographical, 1922-1999
Boxes 45-47

The files in this series contain papers documenting the personal life of Stanley J. Winkelman, as well as materials relating to his wife and family. The series is divided into two subseries.

Subseries A: Personal Papers, 1922-1999, Boxes 45-46 and 49

The papers in this subseries include a birth certificate, school, fraternity and military records, early employment information and expense records, correspondence from a young Stanley Winkelman from 1934 to 1945 and personal correspondence from 1946 to 1994, greeting cards, information relating to birthday celebrations, residences and club memberships, resumes, publicity and feature articles, poetry, and other miscellaneous items. Also included are obituaries and a transcription of the funeral eulogy following Winkelman's death in 1999, as well as information on the Stanley and Margaret Winkelman Fund for Social Justice. Of special interest is a letter to his children and their spouses dictated by Winkelman on December 7, 1981 which describes world events leading up to the bombing of Pearl Harbor in 1941, details his life through World War II, and provides his personal perspective on that period in history and on current (1981) world events. Early records in this subseries (up to 1945) are arranged chronologically. Later records are arranged alphabetically, with the exception of papers relating to Winkelman's death, which are placed at the end of this subseries. Two items (46:37 and Box 49) were added to this series at a later date, accounting for the non-consecutive numbering.
